Eviction Is Ordered Of Remaining Tenants In John Street House

Princeton landlord Sanford Zeitler early last week was ordered by Superior Court Judge Jonathan Fox to begin eviction proceedings for all remaining tenants at 240 John Street. State law mandates a three-month notice of eviction. He was also told to cease and desist from further rental of rooms.

Judge Fox granted Mr. Zeitler a stay from penalties being sought by the Borough, which had ruled in April that the ten-room rooming house, owned by Mr. Zeitler, was illegal, and that it must revert back to single-family occupancy.

The Municipal Court appearance on Wednesday, August 18 — at which Borough attorney Michael Herbert was scheduled to ask that Mr. Zeitler be fined $500 a day for noncompliance with the Borough Zoning Board ruling — was subsequently cancelled.

Mr. Zeitler and his attorney, James Manahan of Strauss and Hall, have appealed the Borough Zoning Board ruling to Superior Court, and are seeking permission to maintain 240 John Street as a rooming house. If the case is decided in their favor prior to November 17 — the end of the three-month eviction notice period — the evictions can be rescinded.

Should the appeal be lost, Mr. Manahan says that Mr. Zeitler will file an alternate plan with the Borough Zoning Board to turn 240 John Street into a unit containing either two, three, or four apartments.

About half the rooms in the house are currently rented. These tenants, according to Mr. Manahan, must seek relocation assistance from the State Department of Community Affairs (DCA), since the rooming house is registered with this agency. The DCA, in turn, seeks reimbursement for its efforts from the landlord.

First Aid Squad in Need of Rescue; Suffering from Volunteer Shortage

Always ready to answer calls for help from Princeton residents, the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad is in dire need of help itself.

It needs volunteers — a few good men or women who are interested in helping other people and are willing to learn the skills needed to cope with medical emergencies of all kinds.

A year ago this fall, the Squad and the Fire Department, both in need of volunteer replacements, joined together, with the full cooperation of Borough Council and Township Committee, in a campaign to enlist recruits. An ad campaign with black and white photographs of fire fighters and Squad members at work won two awards from advertising journals but drew very few recruits. Those who followed up an initial inquiry joined the Fire Department — no one joined the First Aid and Rescue Squad, according to Dave Cromwell, Squad president.

"We're really hurting for people," Mr. Cromwell, a lieutenant in the Township Police Department, says. "We always have a problem in the summer, when the University students go home. But this year, there are no students coming back who are qualified to be senior leaders." A senior leader is someone who has not only cleared probationary status but has also accumulated enough experience to be able to take charge during a call and know how to direct other riders.

West Windsor Approves Referendum on Growth

In a reversal of its previous decision, the West Windsor Township Commitee Monday night gave unanimous approval to a November ballot referendum that will ask residents if they favor an ordinance to limit development in the Township. The vote would be on a nonbinding public question.

The referendum would ask whether West Windsor should adopt a law "reducing the intensity of development in the township and requiring that new development be constructed only in conjunction with the planned installation of State, County, and Municipal infrastructure improvements — i.e., roads, sewers, water supply and drainage —

Rooming House Tenants At Neighborhood Meeting Tell Their Side of Story

At 7:30 Monday night, only eight or nine people were in the meeting room of the Witherspoon Presbyterian Church. Within a half hour, the room was filled, as close to 40 residents of the John-Witherspoon community came to talk with representatives of the Borough Police about the problems in their neighborhood.

This was nearly double the number of residents who came to a meeting of Borough Council earlier this month to ask for help with the drug use and sale, alcohol consumption, noise, and loitering they said they witnessed regularly on their streets.

At the Council meeting, the focus had turned to 240 John Street, a yellow stucco rooming house facing Clay Street. Four drug arrests had been made there in March, when the Borough Police staged a sizable drug raid. Houses on Witherspoon and Clay were also raided.

At this follow-up meeting at the church, several of the residents of 240 John were present to tell their side of the story.

A young man, who identified himself only as Juan, said, "I live there. I work every day. I'm not a bad influence." Another resident, who did not give his name but said he had lived in town all his life, said people should be allowed to drink if they're not noisy and if they are above the legal age.

The house at 240 John, a ten-room rooming house owned by Princeton landlord Sanford Zeitler, was ordered by the Borough in April to revert back to single-family occupancy. Mr. Zeitler has been given until November 17 to clear the building of tenants. He is appealing the ruling. The three residents of 240 John at the meeting, plus two others, were

Rescue Squad

According to Mr. Cromwell, there are only eight senior leaders in the whole Squad of 22 active members. The manpower shortage places a burden on a few members. "Bill Foster answered 600 calls last year, half of the annual total." Mr. Cromwell says. "He's just about burned out. Besides, he will be going to medical school."

Mr. Cromwell, a 23-year veteran of the Squad, estimates that he himself answered some 2,000 calls in the 11 years he was especially active. He knows what it means to become "burned out," in part because, as he says, he sees "enough suffering" through his police work. Nowadays he serves as president, which entails, among other chores, trying to drum up new members to replace volunteers who move away or want to ease up their involvement.

What Is Required? A First Aid and Rescue Squad member is required to take 100 hours of training to qualify as an emergency medical technician (EMT). Then he or she is placed on probationary status for six months to learn such things as the location of all the equipment on the ambulance. After passing a test, the member advances to senior or senior driver status. It could take a year or more of service to become sufficiently experienced and accustomed to all kinds of situations to be qualified as a senior leader.

Squad members are expected to spend one or two nights a week at the Squad house and to go through 10 hours of Squad drills a month. They must also be recertified in cardio-pulmonary resuscitation every year and be willing to spend time answering calls ranging from routine to life-threatening.

Faced with an acute shortage of daytime volunteers at the end of the 1970's, the Squad sought help from the municipalities to pay for two daytime people. About $50,000 is currently budgeted annually for this purpose, with the Township paying two-thirds and the Borough one-third. Mr. Cromwell estimates that, if the Squad were to go to six paid emergency medical technicians to cover the community seven days a week, 24 hours a day, the cost would be $200,000.

He also says there would be no dearth of applicants. Last year there were 15 applicants for a vacancy in one of the two paid crew. "It's a good job, with benefits," Mr. Cromwell remarks. However, he personally would not like to see the Squad lose its volunteer status.

Situation Grave. But the situation is grave. In a report to Captain Ed Obert and to Mr. Cromwell on the current manpower shortage, Mr. Foster lists the members answering 10, 20, 30 and even 40 calls a month in 1988 and draws this conclusion: "We currently do not have enough members to sustain the effort of the Squad. Further, the constraints of jobs, family, school, etc., do not allow most members to make a significant riding contribution. The Squad's volunteer effort is dependent on a very few people whose career on the Squad is of limited duration and [who] might not be replaceable in the near forseeable future."

Mr. Foster also writes, "It is important also to note we are getting far less sustaining support from Princeton University students than in previous years. We are facing a situation unprecedented in recent memory of having no student Senior Leaders and only two student senior members."

In reporting this situation to TOWN TOPICS, Mr. Cromwell speaks as if there is little hope of turning up the eight new members needed to give the Squad the optimum 30-member roster. However, he says he thinks it is important to let the public know that an acute manpower shortage exists — particularly if the Squad should have to go back to the municipalities for additional funding for another paid crew.

When one of the paid professionals is sick, a volunteer has to fill in. Even one more paid crew member could serve as back-up. "Anything would help," Mr. Cromwell says.

LISTENING TO THE COMMUNITY: Shown at the Monday night meeting of John-Witherspoon residents, held at Witherspoon Presbyterian Church, are, from left, Det. John Reading, Capt. Thomas Michaud, Borough Councilman Mark Freda, and the Rev. Adrian McFarlane, pastor of the Church. The meeting was held to discuss problems of drugs, alcohol, noise, and loitering.

expected to receive a three-month notice of eviction this week.

The fact that persons are allowed to drink openly on Borough streets appeared to surprise many in the audience. "There is no law forbidding three or four people from drinking beer on the corner, as long as they are creating no problem," Police Captain Thomas Michaud told the neighbors. It was pointed out that the Township does not allow this.

"Drugs are out of 240," implored a resident of the rooming house. "Leave us alone. If we want to sit there and drink beer, we're of age."

Rhetta Hoagland, who has been active in organizing the neighborhood, stood up and thanked Juan for helping clear the porch at 240 John. "He could hear what was going on," she said. "This young man and another young man, David, cleared it. The police didn't do it. Zeitler didn't do it. I want to thank them."

One resident asked Capt. Michaud whether other areas in Princeton were faced with similar problems.

"There is an occasional problem here and there," said the officer. "But, especially on John and Clay and John and Lytle, it appears to be more persistent. We're concentrating our efforts here."

Speeding Cars. Those attending the meeting at the church ranged from young persons raising children in the neighborhood to the elderly, a number of whom have lived for decades in Princeton. In addition to complaints about drugs, alcohol, and loitering, these neighbors have seen other changes they don't like. One of these is speeding cars.

They complained about cars speeding down Clay, John and Lytle Streets. "Quarry is a drag strip after 11," said one resident. "We have had trees hit."

Capt. Michaud said that officers have been running radar in the area, and promised to make sure that more radar and officers are placed on critical streets.

Currently, two officers are on foot patrol in the John-Witherspoon area at least five nights a week. Hours and days fluctuate to avoid establishing a pattern. In response to a question about how long the foot patrol will continue, Capt. Michaud said, "probably into the fall. We will do it as long as the problem persists, even if we have to do it to January."

Several murmured "amens" rose from the audience.

To a complaint from Juan that there was no recreation center to go to, the Rev. Adrian McFarlane, pastor of Witherspoon Presbyterian Church, offered to work with others to develop such a center. He asked Juan to "get us all together to talk with you."

The Rev. Michael Nabors, pastor of First Baptist Church, then took the floor. He said that, in his seven or eight years in Princeton, he has studied the neighborhood and the trends of the black community.

Police Not the Solution. Twenty-five or 30 years ago, he said, there was relatively little for adult blacks to do. "At that time, most worked with private families. They had Thursdays off, and many would get together Thursday night."

The problem, he continued, is the same 30 years later. "It's easy to bring police officers in, but this won't get to the root of it."

Mr. Nabors raised the fact that, two years ago, there was a series of meetings attempting to ease strained relations between the black community and the Borough Police. "Now

Rooming House

Mr. Herbert said that the Borough has indicated it would assist with relocation efforts.

Mr. Herbert said that Mr. Zeitler had stated in court that he was supplying needed low-cost housing for the community. "I pointed out," he said, "that, with his rental of $275 per month for a room, a typical five-room unit would have rented for $1375 a month." The ten rooms share two bathrooms. There are no kitchens.

Mr. Herbert also pointed out that the Borough is reserving its right to counterclaim for damages to pay for cost of enforcement.

The house at 240 John Street was the focus of a Borough Council meeting early this month, at which residents of the John-Witherspoon area asked for relief from problems plaguing their neighborhood. They listed these as drug sales and consumption, alcohol consumption, and public loitering. One resident called the rooming house "the nerve center of the problem."

needed to accommodate said development."

In the two weeks since the governing body rejected the ballot question by a 3-2 vote, 2,324 signatures were collected on a petition asking that the question be placed on the ballot. The three Committee members initially voting against the referendum voted to support it.

The referendum question was originally proposed in the spring by Democrat Irwin Stoolmacher. Since then, it has gained bipartisan support.

County Freeholder, and Princeton resident, Walter Bliss spoke in favor of the ballot question at the meeting. It was Mr. Bliss, then Borough attorney, who, several years ago filed a suit by the Borough to limit development along Route 1. The suit failed in the courts.

John-Witherspoon

we say all is right. I'm not sure that in two years we have such a relationship with the Police Department that we want to bring them in."

The young pastor pointed to other problems in the community, such as "drug proliferation at Princeton High School and the low level of education minority children receive in the Princeton system.

"The John-Witherspoon community must come together to deal with these problems," he said.

Lilly Trotman stood up to speak. "I have been to two meetings, and I never see Mr. Zeitler. Why can't he come?" she asked. She added that she had lived in the neighborhood 40 years, "and the house wasn't a hazard. There are just too many young people there. They need a superintendent. The man is getting rich off the poor."

Each of the 10 rooms at 240 John Street rents for approximately $275 a month. There are two bathrooms for the entire house and no kitchen.

Capt. Michaud told the audience that attempts had been made on two previous occasions to get a neighborhood Crime Watch started. "We have been wanting to do that in this neighborhood for a long time," he said.

Det. John Reading explained that there were three aspects to a Crime Watch. The first was security inspections, where the police go to every residence free of charge, check every window and door, and recommend cost-effective ways to make the home more secure. The police will then lend an engraving tool for identifying valuables.

But, said Det. Reading, it is also an attitude, "people helping people."

At the end of the discussion, Ms. Hoagland said there would be another meeting next month. Persons interested in forming a Crime Watch were asked to get in touch with her.

She seemed to be pleased by the way the evening had gone. "We started with just five of us," she said. "Look how we have progressed here."

Princeton Woman Named Interim Head of Peddie

Anne Seltzer, 46, of The Great Road, has been appointed interim head of The Peddie School, replacing the late F. Edward Potter, who died on July 20.

A 1964 graduate of the College of Wooster with a B.A. in Classics, Ms. Seltzer earned her master's degree in Classics from Northwestern University in 1975 and taught for several years in the Classics Department at Northwestern.

Ms. Seltzer joined The Peddie School in 1979, and was named head of the English Department in 1980. Over the last several years, she has been active in the Wellesley Seminar for Curriculum Revision, sponsored by the Geraldine R. Dodge Foundation, and she currently serves on the Dodge Foundation advisory board for the teaching of poetry.

An active member of the New Jersey Association of Independent Schools (NJAIS) and Council of Women in Independent Schools, Ms. Seltzer has been a speaker and panel leader at numerous professional conferences for NJAIS in the 1988 Rutgers Symposium on Women. An amateur violinist, she performs with several groups in the Princeton area.

Founded in 1864, the Peddie School achieved national prominence this year, when Walter H. Annenberg, founder of T.V. Guide and former ambassador to Great Britain, pledged $10 million to the school's capital campaign. A 1927 alumnus of Peddie, Mr. Annenberg has committed an unprecedented total of $22 million to the school's capital campaign fund.

The Peddie School is a coeducational institution on a 280-acre campus in Hightstown. Of the 500 students, 300 are residential, and they represent 35 states and 22 foreign countries. Approximately 20 percent of the students receive financial aid, totalling $600,000.

The pledge from Mr. Annenberg begins Phase II of the Campaign for Peddie in conjunction with the school's 125th anniversary. It will be used to further expand academic programs and physical facilities, and to increase financial assistance and teachers' salaries.

The board of trustees, headed by Finn M.W. Caspersen, has announced that it will bein

Medical Center Auxiliary Celebrates Its 70th Year

The Auxiliary of the Medical Center at Princeton will mark its 70th anniversary with its annual art, antiques and rummage sale on Saturday and Sunday, September 24 and 25. The event will be held at the Princeton House storage facility on Herrontown Road off Route 206.

The Auxiliary was formed in 1918, during the worldwide influenza epidemic, by a group of women who wanted to help furnish and equip temporary nursing quarters. Members of the auxiliary went on to help raise funds for a hospital.

Will Lake Carnegie Soon Be Just As Crowded As Route One? It Will If Princeton's Rowing Club Keeps Up Current Growth

LAKERS PRACTICE SESSION: Members of the Carnegie Lake Rowing Association set out for a regular Thursday evening row on Lake Carnegie. From bow (far end) to stern are Lisa Trotter, Sally Dallam, Andy Johnson, Kris Keller, Kelly Tahaney, Frank Jankowski, Travis Webber, Dan Chieco, stroke, wearing a CLRA t-shirt, and with his back to the camera, Ed Koch as coxswain. Interest is sufficiently high to fill two "eights" such as this eight-person racing shell and one or two "fours" four times a week. (Randall Hagadorn, photo)

An ad in a recent TOWN TOPICS for the sale of a Township home listed "one block from Carnegie Lake boathouse" as a prime selling point — ahead of "on NYC bus line" and "school bus at door."

It's a safe bet that the owner is a member of the Carnegie Lake Rowing Association (CLRA), a burgeoning organization of rowing enthusiasts from the community who have worked out a mutually beneficial arrangement with Princeton University to use its facilities to learn, practice or improve their rowing skills. Founded in 1984 by a handful of former college rowers or rowing supporters, the group has grown in four short years to a membership of more than 200 and is well on its way to building its own boathouse.

According to Marvin Preston, president of "Clara," as the club is sometimes called, members range in age from 11 to 70 and are equally divided between men and women. Some are college rowers who want to keep in shape while at home and working at other jobs during the summer. Some are recent graduates who rowed during college.

Princeton High School and the Hun School offer rowing to their students, who become members of CLRA and train right along with the adult members. But according to Mr. Preston, most of the members join, as he did, because they see the lake and rowers out rowing on the lake and say to themselves, "That looks like something I'd like to do."

Tank Training

Beginners, and even the practiced rowers, are encouraged to join or renew the $50 annual membership in November or December, effective in January, in order to take part in tank training sessions over the winter months as preparation for spring, summer and fall on water. Housed in a square stucco building next to the University boathouse, the tank simulates everything about rowing except the tippiness of the narrow racing shells.

Rowers sit on sliding seats as if in an eight-person shell, and dip oar blades into what looks like an elongated, blue wading pool. A machine circulates the water to simulate lake or river water conditions.

Mirrors are angled so that rowers can monitor every phase of the "catch, drive, feather and recover" that are the key elements in sweeping the oar through the water to propel the boat forward. The coach can walk alongside the seats to give hands-on individual instruction in a manner not possible from a moving launch on the lake.

Tank sessions develop necessary skills, strength and endurance, according to CLRA's membership guide, an orange-covered booklet covering all the procedures and prerogatives of membership. Beginners are not allowed on the lake until they are experienced in the tanks and qualify as "rowers." Experienced rowers — college or high school crew, or those who have attended rowing or sculling camps — may demonstrate their skill level to the coach to become qualified.

University Facilities

As Mr. Preston notes, CLRA operates on a University-owned lake, with University-designated coaches and University equipment to supplement that which it has purchased for itself or shares with the Hun School. Thus all CLRA sessions must be scheduled at times when the University is not using these facilities for its own crew program.

In the winter, CLRA tank sessions take place on Sundays at 5 and 6 p.m.; Mondays and Wednesdays at 7 and 8 p.m. and Fridays at the crack of dawn — 6 a.m. Despite these hours, demand is high, and members are asked to limit their participation to not more than three sessions a week unless space is available. In late March, when on-the-water rowing resumes, a hardy group starts its row Tuesday and Thursday mornings at 6, as day is breaking, and on Sundays at 3 and 5 p.m.

During the peak of its season, May through August, when the University is not in session, CLRA members row Tuesday and Thursday evenings at 7 (moved up to 6:30 last week with the shorter daylight) and on Sundays at 4 and 6. Tom Heebink, CLRA captain, is charged with making up the crews for each of the boats and for the regattas in which CLRA members compete with other clubs in the mid-Atlantic region.

Rowing Club

On a typical summer evening, two "eights" (eight-person shells) and two "fours" will head out from the boathouse for a couple of hours of coached warm-up and sprint drills. Willie Black, coach of the Princeton University freshmen women, is CLRA's current coach, with Tim Giordano, former Hun School coach who will be coaching at Peddie School this year, as the club's summer coach.

Unique Bill Posting

Mr. Giordano is also the club treasurer, responsible for collecting seat fees of $4 and $2 for on-the-water and tank sessions, respectively, which, with membership dues and the sale of CLRA T-shirts are the primary source of income. Mr. Preston, a management consultant during his nonrowing hours, has devised and computerized an accounting system to keep track of who rows when and what boat is used. The amount a member owes is posted on the mailing label attached to the club newsletter, Carnegie Currents, mailed out about every six weeks.

Netting a small surplus each year after expenses, CLRA has been able to purchase its own sectional eight-person racing shell which comes apart for easier transportation to regattas. The boat is named for Janet Howe, one of the original founders. The club also owns two sets of oars, a single training shell, and two "cox boxes." These are on-board microphone headsets for the coxswains with speakers located forward that replace the megaphone as means of instructing the crew, and a device which counts the actual strokes per minute.

For more intensified instruction, CLRA holds a six-day rowing camp in June, and those who sign up are expected to attend a two-hour session in late afternoon or early evening each of the six days. The week ends on a Saturday with informal interclub races and a party for all at the home of a member.

During the season, members are encouraged to test their rowing skills and endurance against other clubs in the mid-Atlantic area. CLRA won the Mayor's Cup competing against Wilmington, Del. Rowing Club in June, but is particularly proud of the fact that five of its women members who decided to train together as a four with cox won their event in the Head of the Charles [River] Regatta in Boston last fall.

"Head" races involve as many as 40 competitors rowing single file against the clock, assigned slots according to experience and ability. Head races are held on rivers, usually in the fall.

Carnegie Regatta

The number of regattas for which CLRA has qualified entries has grown from two in 1985 to 16 this season. That includes the club's own United States Rowing Association sanctioned regatta held on Lake Carnegie in September. According to Mr. Preston, this is a well-run and highly successful event, which attracted entries from nine different organizations last year and this year will be held on September 17.

Although CLRA is organized primarily around "sweep-oar" rowing (both hands on one oar) in fours or eights, there is a great deal of interest in the community in "sculling" (an oar in each hand). Sculling is done in a single shell, double or "quad" — four-person shell, with or without cox. Several CLRA members keep their own single shells at the University boathouse — paying $150 a year — and more would do so if there were more space available.

In 1985 CLRA had 11 members who rowed in their own singles. Currently there are 28 such members, but Mr. Preston estimates that half the total membership may be scullers who are not now active in the organization but are avid supporters and would be more active if they could be better accommodated. Stuyvesant Pell, perhaps the best-known and most accomplished singles sculler in Princeton in terms of his victories and his dedication to training, was one of the founders of CLRA, along with Elon Foster, Homer Zink, Livingston Johnson and Ms. Howe.

The desire to provide space for more members to keep their boats at the boathouse instead of having to bring them by car or launch them at Kingston has led to the development of plans to build a CLRA boathouse. The club is committed to raising funds and building a boathouse as an addition to the University rowing facilities, primarily for its own use but also available to the University for the use of visiting crews.

Feasibility Study

Soil borings are being conducted this week to determine the structural requirements for building a separate boathouse in a flood hazard area beyond the tank house. As proposed, the building will have two boat storage areas on either side of a raised "great hall" which will be a multi-purpose meeting room. The storage areas will be capable of housing at least four eights and four fours as well as at least 25 singles and doubles. There will also be an office in which to store club records and men's and women's shower and toilet facilities.

"The University has indicated a willingness to let us proceed, based on the fact we've put together a sustainable organization," Mr. Preston notes. He hopes that construction will begin early next summer, following a campaign to raise $750,000 this winter. However, he is aware that there are many hurdles in obtaining state and local approvals and says that the club is "amenable to doing whatever is required."

Other Activities

From the beginning, CLRA has served as official host to amateur rowers who come to Lake Carnegie for national and Olympic trials and training. This summer the lake was a preselection camp as well as a final selection camp for oarsmen who were seeking to compete in the 1988 Summer Olympics in Seoul, South Korea. Members opened their homes for weeks at a time to these young men, agonizing with them over the possibility they might get "cut," rejoicing when they were selected.

In addition, the club is helping a women's U.S. Olympic pair acquire the shell they are using for the upcoming Olympics.

As Mr. Preston puts it, CLRA is a "constructive auxiliary" to the University's rowing program in that it has developed a membership that is growing in knowledge of rowing. "One of the things you get in the club is a knowledge of what the conventions and protocols are of being on the water. Every lake has its own set."

As they become knowledgeable and experienced rowers, members serve as judges, starters, linesmen, stake boat staff and timers at the intercollegiate regattas sponsored by the University. "This has helped our members learn the fine points of conducting first class regattas," Mr. Preston notes.

Overcoming Skepticism

He says that when CLRA first started the University was "appropriately skeptical" as to whether the organization could assemble enough interested rowers who would be willing to cope with the frustrations of working around the University programs and would be cognizant and respectful of University ownership.

"We assembled a group and got going," Mr. Preston says. "Then we developed procedures which have become fairly refined at this point. It has worked out that the club has proved useful to the University in providing extra money to purchase equipment and in supplementing the income of the coach."

Takes All Comers

Anyone, age 12 and up, is welcome to a couple of free sessions before deciding whether or not to join. To Mr. Heebink, the nice thing about CLRA is "how it serves so many kinds of people." Some city-based clubs require big membership dues and have long waiting lists, he says.

"We take everybody. Some are never going to be particularly good rowers, but we try to get them to the level that they are not going to upset the row, that they blend in the team."

Members speak enthusiastically about the quality of the coaching. Mr. Black, the third CLRA coach following Andy Card and John Groth, exudes positive reinforcement and energetic cheerfulness. Under his tutelage, several of the high school-age beginners have gone on to row at college, and he is presently coaching the two women who will represent the United States at the Olympics as the women's double entry.

CLRA, then, is not only the outlet, the organization, for anyone in the community interested in rowing, but it is also a model of cooperation between town and gown for the benefit of each. The club phone number, the Laker Line, is 683-1618.

obtained use of a house on Stockton Street and turned it into a temporary hospital. They borrowed cots, blankets, and other equipment to furnish it.

That year, Moses Taylor Pyne, a Princeton philanthropist, donated his farm on Witherspoon Street, and the house on it, for the much-needed hospital. The Mayor of Princeton, Dr. Charles Browne, asked Mrs. Edward G. Spaulding to organize a group of women to assist in raising funds for the new hospital.

The Salvage Committee, as it was called, met and decided to collect tinfoil, metal and rags to be sent to New Brunswick for sale. They obtained burlap bags for distribution to Princeton households. The bags were used as receptacles for the materials, and were collected every two weeks by Borough trucks.

Committee members went out in pairs, throughout town streets, leaving the bags and asking for cooperation for the project.

Two years later, in 1920, they organized into the Hospital Aid Committee. Charter members were Mrs. Clarence Tilton, Mrs. Henry C. Bunn, Miss Elsie Croll, Mrs. George C. Winteringer, Mrs. Caspar F. Goodrich, Mrs. William R. Matthews, Mrs. S. Butler Murray, Mrs. Harry F. Covington, Mrs. Frank H. Constant, Mrs. J. Dickinson Este, Mrs. Chalfant Robinson, Miss Sarah Priest, Mrs. William Henry Sayen, Mrs. Charles B. Worden and Mrs. John S. Van Nest.

Initially, rummage sales were held to raise money. Then a thrift shop opened. Finally, the idea of an annual rummage sale evolved. Recently updated and renamed the Art, Antiques and Rummage Sale, the event continues.

The committee is asking the Princeton community to make this year's sale the best ever.

Donations of small appliances, books, clothing, jewelry, toys, sporting items, furniture, housewares, and other items may be brought to the Princeton House storage facility from 9 a.m. to noon on September 6, 10, 13, and 17. All items should be in good, usable condition. No magazines, tires, mattresses or large electrical appliances can be accepted at this time.

Hours for the sale are 9 to 5, both Saturday and Sunday.

Volunteers are always needed on receiving days and on the days of the sale. Call 921-7340 for more informatioo on volunteering or to arrange pickup of large items.

Road Work Planned? 70 Traffic Cones Stolen

"If it were one or two, I wouldn't bother telling you," said Police Capt. Thomas Michaud as he briefed reporters on the criminal activity of the preceding week.

However, 70 orange traffic cones were stolen sometime between noon on August 18 and 2 a.m. the following day. Owned by the Borough, they were used to protect newly painted lines on streets and were covered in yellow and white paint splatters. Forty of the cones were on Paul Robeson Place, and 30 on Nassau Street between Moore Street and Moran Place. Capt. Michaud put their estimated value at $210.

A retail establishment on Palmer Square was the target of burglary and theft between midnight August 17 and 9 a.m. the following day. Approximately $1000 in cash was taken from a safe. Police declined to name the store, because of the ongoing investigation, but did add that there were no signs of forced entry.

"We do have a suspect and expect a conclusion shortly," Capt. Michaud reported, adding that it was a question of locating the suspect and filing charges.

Someone entered an unlocked janitor's closet in the Princeton University Engineering Quad between noon and 3 p.m. on August 17 and removed a power drill in its case. The Hilti Impact drill with bits was valued at $810.

A University employee, a member of the technical staff at Guyot Hall, was the victim of the theft of an Apple computer disc drive valued at $300. The theft occurred between 6 p.m. August 16 and 11 a.m. August 17.

Someone entered a dormitory room in Brown Hall on the Princeton University campus between noon on August 17 and 4 p.m. on August 18 and removed $400 from underneath a mattress.

A University employee lost $36 in cash when her wallet was rifled between 2 and 5 on the afternoon of August 12. The wallet was in her purse, which had been in a desk drawer. The victim told police she was away from her desk at times during the period of the theft.

Someone broke a window of a 1981 Ford parked in the driveway of a home on Linden Lane between 8 a.m. on August 19 and 2 p.m. on August 20. The thief made off with an Alpine AM-FM radio and cassette player mounted on the dashboard. It was valued by the owner at $300. The car was locked at the time.

A Township resident rode his bicycle to Dillon Gym last Sunday afternoon and parked it outside the front door without locking it while he went inside. He was gone only 45 minutes, but long enough for a someone to ride off with the General 12-speed man's bicycle valued at $130.

TREES IN DISTRESS: Close to a dozen trees on both sides of Nassau Street between Charlton and Witherspoon streets are losing their leaves prematurely and look as if they are dying. Three of them (the smaller ones shown above) are in front of the old Lower Pyne Building at Nassau and Witherspoon. However, Sean Burns, secretary to the Shade Tree Commission, says this has been happening for the past three years. The trees are Siberian elms, according to Mr. Burns, and are being attacked by a caterpillar that skeletonizes the leaves in late July and early August. He says the trees will come back and adds that the Borough is reluctant to ask the Department of Transportation to spray because of concern about the chemicals that would have to be used.

Township Homes Target Of Criminal Mischief

There were two burglaries and two thefts in the Township last week.

On August 18, Township Police discovered that a chain link fence across the entrance to the salt box farmhouse at Herrontown Woods had been knocked down and the house entered. Shutters were broken to gain entrance as well as several windows. Once inside, the person or persons burned papers in a sink and scrawled "Home Sweet Home" on the floor. Police Lt. Thomas Potts characterized this as burglary with defiant trespass.

In another instance of burglary, this time with criminal mischief, a residence on Wendover Drive was entered. Two lounge chairs and two straight chairs were removed from the house and thrown into the swimming pool, along with two flower pots, a wheel barrow and two compact discs.

No one was home at the time, and there was no sign of forced entry.

At Littlebrook School, one female employee lost $40 in cash, which was removed from her pocketbook, and another lost two personal checks and a VISA card on August 18.

CAMPERS: Each summer Princeton youth take part in the Princeton Summer Camp adventure program at Blairstown. Some of this year's campers are, from left, standing, Tremayne Freeman, Edward Vernon, Kevin Scudder, Mark Williams, Derrek Vernon, Ricky Vernon, Duwade Towler, Larry Copper and Kevin Harmon; and kneeling, Marvin Downey and Garrett Richards. The group spent 12 days hiking the Appalachian Trail, canoeing the Delaware River and learning outdoor living skills. Princeton Summer Camp scholarships are funded by the Princeton Youth Fund, Princeton University Campus Fund Drive and Princeton Community House.

Two Youths at Large After Skillman Breakout

Two of the three juveniles from the Skillman Training School who knocked a corrections officer unconscious, took his keys and escaped in his car last Sunday were still at large as of Tuesday afternoon.

One youth was apprehended in Manville following a chase which ended in a collision with another vehicle on Route 206 near Dukes Parkway in Hillsborough. The three occupants of the other car were not injured in the crash, according to Hillsborough police.

The three juveniles assaulted corrections officer Terence Burns Jr. of Trenton at approximately 9:30 p.m. Sunday evening. They choked him until he passed out, then took his keys and fled in his car north on Route 206 with Training Center personnel in pursuit. Mr. Burns was treated at Princeton Medical Center and released.

He had been an employee at the minimum security training school since January. One corrections officer is assigned to 17 inmates in each cottage overnight, according to Patricia Mulcahy, New Jersey Department of Corrections spokeswoman.

The juvenile recaptured in Manville is a 17-year-old from Camden. He was convicted of making terroristic threats, receiving stolen property and trespassing. The other two juveniles, both 16, are from Newark. One was convicted of receiving stolen property and the other of making terroristic threats, possession of a controlled dangerous substance and violating parole, according to Ms. Mulcahy.

According to Montgomery Police, 13 juveniles have escaped from the Skillman Training School to date this year. There was a sharp rise in the number of escapes during 1987, when 49 juveniles broke out, compared to 32 in 1986 and 26 in 1985. State officials installed new locks and reinforced windows in the cottages at Skillman in an effort to curb the number of escapes.

New Director Named By Services Council

Patricia C. Martin has been named the new executive director of the Princeton Area Council of Community Services.

She succeeds Joanne Adams, who left the Council in July to become the new director of community services with the Lawrenceville School. Mrs. Martin, the former assistant director of the Council, will begin her new position immediately.

A graduate of the Rutgers Graduate School of Social Work with a specialization in administration, policy and planning, Mrs. Martin worked with the New Jersey Division of Mental Health and Hospitals in the Office of Community Services and as a junior high school teacher at the Milford Academy of Connecticut prior to joining the Council in 1986.

Mrs. Martin's responsibilities will include the overall administrative management of the Council and its financial and budgetary aspects, as well as guiding the organization in serving the greater Princeton area communities. The Council is a nonprofit, community-based human service planning organization dedicated to studying the human needs of the area and developing ways to meet those needs.

Mary Jacobs Library Closed for Labor Day

The Mary Jacobs Library in Rocky Hill will be closed Saturday through Monday, September 3 through 5, for Labor Day weekend. The library will open again for regular business on Tuesday, September 6, at 9:30. It will also resume Saturday hours, 9:30 to 3:30, on Saturday, September 10.

For further information, call the library at 924-7073.

Toddler Time Resumes At Rocky Hill Library

The Mary Jacobs Library in Rocky Hill will resume the fall schedule of "toddler time" on Thursday mornings, beginning Thursday, September 8, at 10:30.

The program will consist of 30 minutes of stories, songs and play activities for toddlers, ages 2 to 3¼, and their parents. Parents should plan to remain with their children.

Registration is required and is limited to twice a month to members of the Mary Jacobs Library and other branches of the Somerset County Library system.

To register and for further information, call the library at 924-7073.

NEW ON NASSAU STREET: New traffic signals at the intersection of Olden and Nassau Street and at Chestnut and Nassau Street have been installed by the New Jersey Department of Transportation. They are under wraps pending hook-ups by Public Service and New Jersey Bell and may not be operational for another month to six weeks, according to a DOT workman at the site on Monday.

New Session to Begin Of "Smoke No More"

"Smoke No More," an eight-part smoking cessation program, will begin at Princeton Medical Center on Monday from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m.

"Smoke No More" is a behavioral modification program led by former smokers. The emphasis is on positive reinforcement and support in efforts to quit smoking. The cost is $50.

To register call Velma Rhodes, Corporate Health Services, Princeton Medical Center, 921-7700, extension 4647.

Parents, Children Needed For Television Special

The Public Library needs volunteers — parents and children three years old or more — to be part of a Public Broadcasting System series on "Raising Kids."

A segment of the series will be taped at the library this Thursday at 2:30 p.m. Toy consultant Ruth Roufberg of Kendall Park will give a talk on choosing toys for preschool and early school age children, and parents will have an opportunity to see toys, ask questions, and voice their concerns about toys and their part in children's play. To participate, interested parents should register at the children's desk in the library or by calling the children's department at 924-9529.

Ms. Roufberg reviews children's games and toys for a variety of magazines, including Gifted Children Monthly. She has been a judge for the Parents' Choice awards and frequently presents toy-buying workshops for parents.

The "Raising Kids" series is being produced by the Public Broadcasting System and WXXI-TV of Rochester, N.Y. The 13-part series of half-hour programs will be broadcast nationally next winter.

Space Is Still Available For Seniors' Sept. Trip

The Recreation Department's Senior Trip Club still has openings for its September trip for senior citizens. All men and women age 60 and over are invited to attend.

The Presbyterian Homes of New Jersey announces its newest geriatric nursing care center

The Monroe Village Health Care Center

This is an opportunity for the general public to apply for skilled and intermediate nursing care at the Health Care Center. In the future, only residents of Monroe Village (our continuing care retirement community) will be eligible.

Since 1927, The Presbyterian Homes of New Jersey has been dedicated to providing tender loving nursing care in an atmosphere of human dignity and enhancement of life.

Residents of our health care center will enjoy:

- Daily room and board at an inclusive rate
- Pleasant home-like surroundings in a secure environment
- A professional medical and nursing staff
- Supportive social services
- Planned daily activities and recreation
- Physical, speech and occupational therapies
- Individual nutritional planning

The Monroe Village Health Care Center is licensed by the State of New Jersey to provide total long term care services to private paying residents and has applied for Medicare and Medicaid approval.

For further information, please write or call Marcia Kirkpatrick, Director of Social Services or Romayne Smith, RN, Director of Nursing Services.

Y After-School Program Is Taking Registrations

The YWCA After-School Program is now registering kindergarteners through eighth-graders in Princeton, Lawrenceville, Cranbury and Washington Township. There is also a Before-School Breakfast Program in Lawrenceville and Washington Township.

After-school care is available daily until 6 p.m., on early dismissal days, and on most school holidays from 8 a.m. until 6 p.m. Activities include multi-media arts and crafts, active and quiet play, movies, daily homework time, academic enrichment, tutorial services, numerous field trips, library and scout programs, recreational swim, inergener ational programs with community nursing homes and daily snacks approved and supervised by the New Jersey Department of Education Child Care Food Program.

In Princeton and Lawrenceville, children may take YWCA Youth Department classes at a reduced rate. Scholarships are available on an as-needed, first-come, first-served basis.

For further information and registration forms, call 497-2100.

Registration Under Way For YWCA Gymnastics

YWCA gymnastics registration, for youngsters 5 months to 15 years old, is under way for the falt session, which begins Tuesday, September 13. Pirouette Team tryouts, for girls 7 to 15 years old, will be held on Thursday, September 15, from 5 to 7 p.m. in Gym B.

Classes for pre-school girls and boys include Fun for Ones, Gym & Swim, and Pre-Gymnastics. Family Gym, a new class from 9 to 10 a.m. on Saturdays, gives parents and young children a chance to join in games, and to explore obstacle courses and special equipment for early gymnasts.

The school, a nonprofit organization founded in 1980, was organized by a group of Japanese parents who wanted to provide their children with a Japanese education. The Department of East Asian Studies at Princeton University has supported the program and allowed use of classrooms.

The school has grown over the years, and currently has more than 150 students enrolled in classes for Japanese children, courses in Japanese as a second language, and an adult class. There are 17 instructors.

The new high school classes will meet every Sunday from 1 to 4:40 p.m. in Palmer Hall, Princeton University. A popular university textbook will be used, and there will be a monthly charge to help defray costs.

will include selections from the biographies of former Presidents' wives, from Eleanor Roosevelt to Nancy Reagan. Course highlights will include films, music and fascinating facts. No outside reading is required and there will be no tests or homework. The fee is $25.

The pottery class will be taught by Sue Tillett, who has had considerable experience in hand-coiled pottery. The class will begin at 1 p.m. on Wednesday, September 7, in the Community Room at Redding Circle.

Objects which can be made using the hand-coiled method include vases, pots, bowls, and lamps. The technique is fun and terrific for arthritic fingers. There is no charge for materials; however, there is a nominal fee for firing the finished pieces.

Dance/Movement classes meet regularly at 10:30 a.m. at the Senior Resource Center. Led by Jocelyn Helm, certified dance therapist, the chair movement exercises are designed especially for arthritics and adults with other disabilities, such as cardiac problems, emphysema, and rheumatism. Classes are free and open to the public.

For more information about the classes and to register, call 924-7108.

Homefriends Program Needs New Volunteers

The Homefriends program sponsored by the Senior Resource Center will be training a group of new volunteers on Thursday, September 15, from 2 to 4:30 p.m. at the Senior Resource Center, Spruce Circle.

Trained volunteers are introduced to homebound older adults in the Princeton area who are in need of companionship and support. Each of these individuals has been previously screened by the program staff. Volunteers visit their elderly homefriend weekly for a minimum of one hour, and may also assist with grocery shopping and errands if needed.

Unlike many volunteer opportunities, the Homefriends program can offer flexibility that meets the needs of working as well as nonworking individuals who wish to volunteer in the community.

Anyone who would like to experience a rewarding friendship with an older adult should contact Barbara Purnell at 924-7108.

Tomato Weigh-In Set

Tomato growers are invited to bring their biggest, heaviest tomato to Obal's Garden Market, Alexander Street, Saturday morning between 9 and 11 for the 11th annual New Jersey Championship Tomato Weigh-In.

At 11 a.m. the person with the heaviest tomato will be declared eligible for the State finals and presented with a check for $25 and a cap with the event logo. That person should then make tracks to Monmouth Hall in Eatontown, where the State finals will be held at 5 p.m. The top prize is $1,000, with second, third, fourth and fifth prizes at $500, $250, $150 and $100, respectively.

Joe Heimbold of Monmouth Beach is the man behind this event. He has persuaded Gov. Kean to declare Saturday Tomato Day in New Jersey and has enlisted the cooperation of some 49 weigh-in stations, such as Obal's, around the State. He says the heaviest tomato thus far has been a 4.574-pound beauty grown in Clifton which won the championship in 1985. Its grower has been a three-time winner over the years, he adds.

Instructor Tsuneko Kojima has taught Japanese for 20 years, both in Japan and America, and is currently teaching Japanese at Rutgers University and at the Japan Society in New York.

The goal of the school is to make the course equivalent to high school language curriculum. To this end, its principal, Hiroko Y. Sherwin, of Poor Farm Road, has asked headmasters of 11 area schools to consider giving academic credit for this course. "Most schools seem to be enthusiastic," she said.

Littlebrook School Holds Welcoming Open House

All parents and children of the Littlebrook School community are invited to Littlebrook School, 39 Magnolia Lane, on Thursday, September 1, at 9:30 a.m.

The welcoming get-together will offer an opportunity to meet with the principal, Dr. Robert Ginsberg, and staff members. Tours of the building will be given.

For additional information, call Chris Nitto, 683-9718.

Winter Dreams Gala Benefits Eden Programs

The friends of the Eden Family of Programs will host the first "Winter Dreams Gala" at the Hyatt Regency on January 21, 1989.

Honorary Chairman of the event is Beverly Sills. Joining her on the Honorary Committee are Carol Burnett, Arlene Francis, Barbara Walters, Harold Shapiro, and actor William Christopher, best known for his role as Father Mulcahey in the televison show MASH.

Ida Julian is chairman of the event and Madeline Henderson is co-chair.

The evening will be distinguished by a winter theme, with costumed doormen and live penguins greeting guests. Russian folk dancers and musicians will begin the entertainment. Music for the remainder of the the evening will be provided by the Peter Duchin Orchestra.

The Eden Family of Programs serves children, adolescents and adults with autism and language and behavior disorders.

Tickets for the event are $250 per person. Sponsorships are being offered at various levels. For information call Andrew Armstrong at The Eden Institute, 987-0099.

Cancer Society Seeking Volunteers Who Drive

The American Cancer Society is seeking volunteers for its Road to Recovery program. Needed are persons who will drive patients to treatment centers and home again.

According to the Cancer Society, an estimated 35,800 New Jersey residents will learn they have cancer this year. One cancer patient requiring radiation therapy could need to make anywhere from 20 to 30 trips in six weeks. A patient receiving chemotherapy might report for treatment weekly for up to a year.

Road to Recovery volunteers arrange their own schedules, and may volunteer as little as one afternoon a month.

For further information, or to become a volunteer, call 394-5000.

PEOPLE
In the News

Eric D. Davies, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Davies III, 298 Nassau Street, has been named to the dean's list at New Hampshire College, Manchester.

Polly M. Ranson, of Hopewell, has joined the Eden Institute Foundation as an administrative assistant for development. Previously she worked at Rutgers Preparatory School as a fund raiser and as director of admissions.

The Eden Institute Foundation, a private, nonprofit organization, raises operating, endowment and capital funds, used primarily to offset operating expenses and augment faculty salaries for the Eden Family of Programs. Founded in 1975, the Eden Family of Programs provide a comprehensive continuum of educational, residential and employment programs for individuals with autism.

The Montgomery Township Board of Education has appointed George Yantz as the new vice principal of Montgomery High School. He will replace Anne Marie Current, who became principal of the high school in March.

Mr. Yantz presently serves as a mathematics teacher and administrative intern at Linden High School. He was formerly a biology and chemistry teacher at Elizabeth High School and a biology and general science teacher at Union County Regional High School.

Joseph Gigliotti, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gigliotti, 452 Stockton Street, received a varsity letter in lacrosse at Portsmouth Abbey School in Rhode Island. He finished the season as high scorer for his team with 42 points. He will attend St. Lawrence University in the fall.

Dr. Leonard Blank, 114 Main Street, Kingston, who has been adjunct professor of psychiatry at the University of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey for ten years, has been appointed clinical professor of psychiatry at the University of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey-Robert Wood Johnson Medical School.

Dr. Blank is in private practice and is clinical director of the New Jersey Institute for Psychotherapy in Kingston.

Marine Pvt. Jeremy P. Dow, son of George H. Dow, 12 Viburnam Court, Lawrenceville, has completed recruit training at Marine Corps Recruit Depot, Ferris Island, S.C.

Theodorick B. Bland, of Lawrenceville, has been named to the dean's list at Bowdoin College, Brunswick, Me.

Army 1st Lt. Leonard S. Kim, son of Ho T. and Soo W. Kim, 141 Bertrand Drive, has arrived for duty in South Korea.

He is a 1981 graduate of Princeton High School and a 1985 graduate of Princeton University.

Cynthia A. Lawson of Princeton has been appointed director of hospital admissions at the Osteopathic Medical Center of Philadelphia. This is the parent organization of an acute care teaching hospital and of Philadelphia College of Osteopathic Medicine, the largest college of osteopathic medicine in the United States and the ninth largest medical school in the nation by enrollment.

Ms. Lawson previously was an administrative resident at Princeton Medical Center.

Sgt. Matthew M. Wynne, son of Robert B. and Shirley M. Wynne, 54 Charleston Drive, Skillman, has been decorated with the Army Achievement Medal at Fort Bragg, N.C.

Constance Cortes, daughter of Theresa Cortes of Princeton, a recent graduate of Princeton High School, has received the 1988 Theodore S. Reed Scholarship. The award is granted annually by the board of directors of Walter B. Howe, Inc., in memory of their associate, Mr. Reed.

Selection for the $1,000 scholarship is based on moral character, outstanding scholastic record, and interest in a future career in business management.

Miss Cortes plans to attend Rider College this fall.

Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute has awarded the Rensselaer Medal to R. Benton Metcalf, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Metcalf, 23 Toth Lane, Rocky Hill, a student at the Hun School; and John Ku, son of Chia Chaun and Feng Tien Ku, 18 Hopkins Drive, Lawrenceville, a student at Lawrence High School.

Each year, Rensselaer presents this medal to high school students who excel in the study of mathematics and science. The Institute presents the award to one junior from each of approximately 1,700 high schools.

Donald E. Blankenbush, of Pennington, a teacher at John Witherspoon Middle School, has been awarded a James Madison Fellowship. This is presented to outstanding junior and senior high school teachers of history and government, and is given on the basis of a national competition.

Each James Madison Fellow received an award of $2500, support to attend a summer conference on the United States Constitution, and funds for projects in his or her community and school.

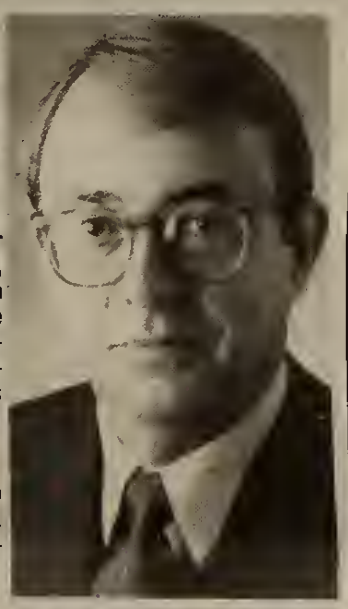
Peter W. Cook, son of Deidre Cook, 416 Blue Spring Road, has graduated Phi Beta Kappa from Rutgers University. A graduate of Montgomery High School, he will take an extended tour of Europe before entering law school next year.

Dr. Walton R. Johnson, 358 Cherry Valley Road, a social anthropologist and chairman of the African Studies Department at Rutgers University, has been awarded a fellowship from the Ford Foundation Postdoctoral Fellowship Program for Minorities.

He will become an honorary research associate, beginning in September, at the Centre for African Studies at the University of Cape Town, South Africa. He will study social change and race relations in Cape Town.

Dr. Johnson has taught at Rutgers since 1983 and previously held an appointment there from 1972 to 1975. He received his doctorate from London University in England.

Heather McFarlane, of Princeton was named to the Dean's List at Monmouth College during the spring semester.



W. Paul Bush II, of Princeton, has been elected vice president, treasurer, of Squibb Corporation.

In his new capacity, Mr. Bush is responsible for all treasury matters, international and domestic, as well as long range financial planning. He is also responsible for the financial evaluation of the company's commercial relationships and acquisition opportunities.

Mr. Bush joined Squibb in 1976 as a financial analyst and has held positions of increasing responsibility. Most recently, he was vice president, financial planning and analysis. He is a graduate of Brown University and holds an M.B.A. degree from Harvard University.

Cadet Patrick T. Sullivan, son of Raymond A. and Valerie J. Sullivan of 15 Van Wyck Drive, Princeton Junction, received practical work in military leadership at the United States Army ROTC advanced camp in Fort Bragg, N.C. He is a student at the University of Richmond.

The six-week camp includes instruction in communications, management, and survival training. Successful completion of the camp and graduation from college results in a commission as a second lieutenant in either the United States Army, Reserves, or National Guard.

New Financial Center Opens on Nassau Street

National State Bank has opened a new Personal Financial Center at 138 Nassau Street. The center provides full banking services, including personal financing and investment advice, brokerage service, and estate planning.

The center has a non-traditional banking atmosphere, with desks and plush chairs replacing teller stations. A personal account manager is assigned to each customer.

Mary G. Roebling, chairman emeritus of the bank, and Ellen Hodges, president of Princeton Chamber of Commerce, joined National State bankers in a ribbon cutting ceremony for the grand opening. Catherine Lipton, branch manager, presented a $500 check to Ms. Hodges for the Chamber of Commerce.

National State Bank, headquartered in Elizabeth, is a $2 billion asset subsidiary of Constellation Bancorp.

Schreyer Will Speak At NJBIA Breakfast

William A. Schreyer, chairman and chief executive officer of Merrill Lynch & Co., will discuss some of the major economic challenges facing the region and the nation at the New Jersey Business and Industry Association's "Distinguished Speaker Breakfast" series on September 15.

Mr. Schreyer will discuss his views on the need to increase savings and investment in the United States to prepare for meeting the retirement needs of the aging "baby boom" generation. He will also review the Merrill Lynch outlook for the securities markets and economy.

The program will be held at the Merrill Lynch Princeton Corporate Campus on Scudders Mill Road from 8 a.m. to 10 a.m. Breakfast will be served. The program is open to NJBIA members and nonmembers. To register call 393-7707.

Chronar Corp. Shows Second Quarter Profits

Chronar Corp., the manufacturer of amorphous silicon photovoltaic solar panels, reported an operating profit and record revenues for the second quarter of 1988.

The net profit for the quarter was $.16 per share, versus a $.31 loss for the second quarter of 1987.

The company reported increases in revenues in all its major product lines during the quarter. The largest share of total revenues came from the sale of consumer products. During the quarter, Chronar completed the sale of most of its interest in its French affiliate, Chronar France, to two existing French shareholders. The sale left Chronar with a 19.4 percent interest in the affiliate.

gram of Sheffield School," reported Dr. Larry K. Dodds, President of ACCET.

The Sheffield School's four-month program trains students to work with children within a home environment. Training is in the areas of child development, recreation, first aid, CPR, nutrition, interpersonal communication, teaching in the home, and other family management and child care skills.

Personnel Notes

Joyce Ziemer has been named vice president, technical services, of REI Computer Services Corporation. Ms. Ziemer manages the company's major projects.

Also announced by REI were the appointments of Susanne Johnson to manager of marketing, and Gary Young to manager of systems operations.

The Princeton office of Gloria Nilson Realtors was recently recognized as first in sales for the company during the month of June. Three agents in that office were recognized as having the largest volume of sales for the month. They were Anne Elliott, with a sales volume of $2.5 million, and Betsy Thurman and Donna Kearney, with sales volumes of nearly $1 million for the month.

Sandy Whyte has joined the sales staff of Weichert Realtors' Princeton office. Before moving to Princeton in April, she was involved in different capacities of residential real estate in Edinburgh, Scotland; Toronto, Canada; and San Diego, California. She received her real estate sales license in 1985 for California, where she is a member of the 1987 million dollar club.

Four clinical social workers have been hired by the Community Guidance Center of Mercer County, a United Way mental health agency headquartered at 253 Nassau Street. They will provide family and individual outpatient psychotherapy service at several County centers.

Named to the Hamilton Center are Vivienne Killingsworth and D. Stacey Konig, both from Cranbury, and Jacquelyn Maines of Lambertville, all of whom received M.S.W. degrees from the Rutgers Graduate School of Social Work.

Lisa Fisch, who recently moved to Princeton from New York City will join the Ewing Center. She received her M.S.W. from New York University School of Social Work.

Laura Adams, president of Laura Adams and Associates, a financial planning and investment advisory firm in Princeton, will now offer a full range of real estate services through an affiliation with Richard A. Weidel Corp., Realtors.

Ms. Adams is chairman of the board of the Princeton Area Society of the Institute of Certified Financial Planners, a member of the national board of the ICFP, and past vice president of Cedar Crest College.

Trudi Rohla has acquired ownership of Rohla & DiClerico & Partners and formed Rohla Communications International, Inc., located at Tamarack Circle in Skillman. The firm provides public relations and investor relations support services for companies in the health care, biotechnology and technology fields and for financial services groups which focus on these industries.

Matthew Young, Moores Hill-Mount Rose Road, Hopewell, has been appointed creative director of the Millstone Group, a corporate graphic design and advertising firm located in Research Park.

He was formerly director of advertising for Folkways Records/Smithsonian Institution, and also served as senior copywriter with Dana Communications in Hopewell.

Opinion Research Corporation has announced seven promotions. They are, Luci Benn, of Pennington, to research executive; Kristine L. Johnson, of Princeton, to research associate; Valerie L. Deatoo, of Princeton, to senior research associate; S. (Holly) Winans, of Princeton Junction, to senior research associate; Helen M. Blackwell to project manager; Bret K. Curry to senior research associate; and Nancy E. Ziedonis to senior research associate.

A Venture into the Abstract at Open Air Theatre: "Nine" Offers Strong Characterizations, Stark Set

New or different art forms often make people uneasy. In musical theater, most audiences expect a clear plot and tangible melodic songs. The East Brunswick Community Players have ventured into the abstract and illusionary with their production of Nine at the Open Air Theatre at Washington's Crossing Park. The unfamiliarity may have kept the opening-night audience small, but certainly the first night in weeks with reasonably cool temperatures made for a pleasant evening under the stars.

Nine opens with the abstract — reflections on the life of Guido Contini, a has-been film director who has committed himself to directing another epic with nary a plot line or character portrait in his head. This conflict haunts Guido throughout the show; during the second act his film is actually being made. Guido is also haunted by women: his wife, his mistress, his producer, and a bevy of women who have commanded his attention and influenced his power in the past. Much of Guido's life is presented in mime, through the character of Guido as a youth.

A PENSIVE MOMENT: Actor Joe Stanton plays Guido Contini in "Nine," the musical, playing at Washington Crossing State Park's Open Air Theatre.

The set of this production never changes. A series of stark cubes on stage represents a variety of locales. The costumes are equally stark — the cast is either all in black, red or white.

As Guido, Joe Stanton displays a great deal of musicality and theatrical showmanship. His acting is far better than his singing, however, and his voice doesn't always hold up to the demands of the role. However, Mr. Stanton creates a sympathetic character as he struggles with the mental demons of his youth.

Pat Powers plays the role of Luisa, Guido's wife. Although her major song is a bit low for her, she has a pleasant voice and is very effective in conveying the despair of her marriage.

Little Guido is played by Pat Alagna in a role which is primarily mime. The young Mr. Alagna displays a great deal of stage energy and dance capability as he haunts the older Guido's recollections.

Destructive Women. Two destructive women are present in Guido's life: his producer, Lillian La Fleur, and his vixen mistress, Carla. Lillian La Fleur, played by Margaret Sterlacci, is a viperish character who travels with a punk companion complete with switchblade. Ms. Sterlacci has a naturally low voice which copes well with the songs and vocal character of her role and she resists the temptation to force the sound in order to appear more dictatorial.

Jenne Alagna, as Carla, is almost contortional in her attempted seductions of Guido — she even sings while standing on her head! Clearly a gymnastic wonder, Ms. Alagna's appearances on stage were eagerly awaited by the audience.

The other 20 or so women in Guido's life who flash before his eyes are played with good singing and some strong characterizations. The ensemble scenes involving children were some of the strongest. Although there is a great deal of choreographed movement on stage,

FINAL WEEKEND: John Prosky as Charlie Baker and Robert Bonotto as Owen Musser in Princeton Rep Company's production of Larry Shue's "The Foreigner." Final performances are this Thursday, Friday and Saturday at 8 in Murray-Dodge Theater on the Princeton University campus and on Sunday at 7.

one would like to see more dancing, especially in a show whose original production included Broadway phenomenon Tommy Tune. Some razzle-dazzle dance numbers might have provided the audience with a visual handle on the sometimes obscure plot.

Nevertheless, Nine is a good show with which to introduce contemporary musical theater to the Open Air Theatre audience. Nine is an abstract, intellectual show — no boy meets girl, boy gets girl, here. However, the music is quite accessible, and there are some entertaining performances in this production. Combined with the refreshingly cool evenings, this show offers enjoyable theater as the closing production of the Open Air season.

Nine will be performed Wednesday through Saturday at the Open Air Theatre. Information about tickets can be obtained by calling 737-1826 after 4:30 on performance day.

Final Performances Due Of "The Foreigner"

The Foreigner by Larry Shue, presented by the Princeton Rep Company at the air-conditioned Murray-Dodge Theatre on the Princeton University campus, will play its third and final week this weekend.

Set in a fishing lodge in Tilghman County, Georgia, this madcap and warm-hearted comedy adventure involves the antics of Sgt. Froggie LeSueur and his mysterious foreigner friend.

Performances Thursday, Friday and Saturday are at 8 p.m., and Sunday at 7 p.m. Ticket prices are $10 on Thursday and Sunday evenings, and $12 on Friday and Saturday evenings. Student, senior and group discounts are available. For ticket reservations and further information, call the box office at 452-4950 or 921-3682.

Cabaret Performer Due At Murray-Dodge Theatre

The Princeton Rep Company will present "An Evening of Cabaret Entertainment with Denis Hyland" from September 1 to 4 as its final production of the summer.

For this appearance in Princeton, Mr. Hyland has created a performance piece of original material from his New York nightclub act and the music, song, and dance of Bob Fosse and Michael Bennett. He has been performing his one-man show for the last five years in New York at such clubs as The Duplex, Palssons Supper Club, Don't Tell Mama, and Jason's Park Royal.

Mr. Hyland's show changes each time he performs in a new club, so his audiences return again and again to sample the talents of this rising star. Sometimes his show is all original material written by himself; at other times he adapts well-known Broadway and Off-Broadway material to his own innovative interpretation and personality.

Raised in New York City, he was known to cut class and sneak into Broadway shows at intermission, return home and recreate the second act in his parents' living room. Mr. Hyland has trained in every aspect of musical theater — voice, dance, acting, writing, choreography and lyric writing. He continues to study voice privately with coach Phillip Ames Fine in New York, and has studied dance with Tommy Tune, Patrice Soreiro, Tommy Walsh and Ann Reinking.

Performances will be Thursday through Saturday, September 1 to 3, at 8 p.m., and Sunday, September 3, at 7 at the Murray-Dodge Theatre oo the Princeton University campus. Tickets are $10 Thursday and Sunday evenings, and $12 Friday and Saturday evenings.

Student, senior, and group discounts are available. Call the box office for further information and ticket reservations at 452-4950 or 921-3682.

Subscriptions Available To Kelsey Theater Season

Subscriptions are on sale for the fall season at Kelsey Theater at Mercer County Community College.

The season opens Friday, September 16, with a performance by the Rebecca Kelly Dance Commpany, a modern dance troupe which has performed throughout the United States, France and Austria since 1982. On Friday, September 23, actor Bill McLinn will impersonate Mark Twain in a

YOU HAVE TO BE A SPECIAL RESTAURANT TO MAKE SPECIALS AS SPECIAL AS THIS.

At J.B. Winberie, we think menu specials ought to be what their name implies—special.

That's why we put such care into their preparation.

And that's why we put more on our menu each day than most restaurants offer in a week.

So if you're in the mood for pasta, there's always five to choose from, like Primavera or Chicken Fettuccini.

You know that if you're looking for fresh seafood, you can order from a selection of at least four varieties each day.

And if you don't order from the day's specials, you can rest assured something else on our menu will appeal to your taste buds.

Of course, variety isn't all you can expect from us. Expect delicious food, first-rate service, and prices that are modest.

Put those ingredients together and you've got a very special restaurant. J.B. Winberie.

Summer Cinema Closes With Allen, Fellini Films

Summer Cinema's 11th season concludes this weekend with a double feature by two leading film artists who deal in the world of human comedy. The films are Woody Allen's Hannah and Her Sisters at 7:30 and Federico Fellini's And the Ship Sails On at 9:30.

Hannah and Her Sisters is a film dealing with precarious urban existence, crowded with character and incident, all filtered through Allen's own personal observations.

The story is about Hannah (Mia Farrow), the beacon of stability, a woman who has neglected her acting career for her family. Eliot (Michael Caine), her financial-advisor husband, has developed an erotic fixation on her sister Lee (Barbara), while the third sister, Holly (Dianne Wiest), is in a mad, coke-induced scramble to find a man and a career. Woody Allen plays Hannah's ex-husband, whose brush with mortality sends him spinning into an existential crisis.

And the Ship Sails On begins in July, 1914, the eve of World War I, as a luxury liner is about to set sail. Aboard are the cream of European artistic life, particularly of the operatic world — conductors, singers, impresarios, and the titled and untitled rich. The cruise is actually an elaborate funeral procession to honor the passing of the world's greatest soprano by scattering her ashes near an island.

In the course of the cruise, the passengers bicker, make love, indulge their famous rivalries to the hilt, and have unfortunate encounters with representatives of the lower animal kingdom.

Season's Offerings Listed By George St. Playhouse

George Street Playhouse, under the new leadership of Producing Director Gregory S. Hurst, will open its 15th anniversary season with the musical Little Shop of Horrors on Friday, October 7. Described as "an evening of comical madness," Little Shop of Horrors features a man-eating plant that brings fame and fortune to a skid-row florist for the price of blood.

Alan R. Belknap and Diana Baffa-Brill serve as director and choreographer, respectively, for this production. Mr. Belknap, who has directed extensively in New York and at regional theaters across the country, received acclaim for his work on the production Modigliani. Ms. Baffa-Brill's work has been seen in the recent Broadway revival of Mame, which starred Angela Lansbury.

Running through November 6, Little Shop of Horrors will feature Meghan Duffy, whose credits include the Broadway production of Grease, as well as the national tour of The Rocky Horror Show. She recently appeared in the New York production of The Wonder Years at the Village Gate.

The next production will be Frank Gilroy's drama The Subject Was Roses, November 16 through December 11. Featuring Isabel Sanford, the Emmy award-winning actress of television's The Jeffersons, The Subject Was Roses deals with a young man's homecoming after serving in World War II.

The world premiere musical Tales of Tinseltown will run from January 4 through 29. Written by Paul Katz and Michael Colby, this movieland musical depicts a young farm girl's rise to stardom in Hollywood. Larry Carpenter, artistic director of New Hampshire's American Stage Festival, will direct. Daayork Lee will choreograph.

Ms. Lee's choreography credits include the European and Far Eastern tour of A Chorus Line, in addition to the Washington Opera's production of Goya, with Placido Domingo.

Stage, screen and television veterans James Whitmore and Audra Lindley will star in the world premiere comedy The Eighties, February 8 through March 5. Written by playwright Tom Cole, author of Medal of Honor Rag and the movie Smooth Talk, the play takes a funny, and often touching, look at life at 80 in the 80's. Directing The Eighties will be Lamont Johnson, whose credits include the films Lipstick and One on One, as well as the television mini-series of Gore Vidal's Lincoln.

The Mystery of Irma Vep will be performed March 15 through April 9. Written by Charles Ludlam, The Mystery of Irma Vep is a theatrical whirlwind of love, murder and romance. Producing Director Gregory S. Hurst marks his directorial debut at GSP with this production.

Arthur Miller's All My Sons will come to the GSP stage April 19 through May 14. GSP's new associate artistic director, Wendy Liscow, will direct.

Several plays are currently under consideration to round out the 1988-89 season. They include Christopher Hampton's Les Liaisons Dangereuse; Neil Simon's Broadway Bound; Robert Harling's Steel Magnolias, and a new play, Diminished Capacity, by Tom Dulac, which would feature actor Anthony Zerbe.

Subscriptions to the George Street Playhouse's 15th anniversary season are still available. For further information, call the box office at (201) 246-7717.

The George Street Playhouse, a resident company of the New Brunswick Cultural Center is located at 9 Livingston Avenue in downtown New Brunswick. Parking is available for $1 behind the DKM properties at 303 George Street, just across from the Livingston Avenue/George Street intersection (entrance on New Street).

Open House Scheduled By Pennington Dance

Pennington Dance will hold an open house to celebrate its ninth year of classes on Saturday, September 3, from 1 to 4 p.m. in the dance studio at the Pennington Presbyterian Church, Main Street and Delaware Avenue, Pennington. The open house is an opportunity to meet instructors, experience the studio's unique, sprung-wood floor, observe videotapes of recitals and purchase discounted dancewear.

Pennington Dance is a community dance school offering classes in classical ballet and pointe, jazz, tap, pre-school dance and ballroom to students ages 3½ to adult. Classes begin on Wednesday, September 14. They are limited in size and taught by professionally trained adult instructors. To register, on a first-come, first-served basis, call the director, Nancy Warner, at 890-8503.

'Aristocats' Film Due At Rocky Hill Library

The Mary Jacobs Library in Rocky Hill will present a feature-length, animated film for all ages on Monday at 7. The movie, The Aristocats, is based on a true story of Parisian cats that became heirs to a fortune in the early 1900's. Two cats are deliberately lost by a butler who fears they will inherit his mistress's wealth, but a variety of animal friends restore them to their rightful place.

The film features the voices of Phil Harris, Eva Gabor and Sterling Holloway. First released in 1970, it is in technicolor and runs for 78 minutes.

The program is free and open to the public. For further information, call the library at 924-7073.

MUSIC

Soprano Is Scheduled For Concert in Trenton

Broadway star Barbara Cook will appear with the Greater Trenton Symphony Orchestra Saturday, September 10, at 8 in the War Memorial Auditorium. The concert is sponsored by the Trenton Arts Commission as the first of its Eyes on Trenton '88 Star Series.

Perhaps best known for creating the role of Marian the librarian in The Music Man, Ms. Cook also starred in Candide, Plain and Fancy, Flahooly and She Loves Me, among others. She has also made many recordings.

Under the direction of Wally Harper, Ms. Cook will perform with an ensemble of 57 musicians. The first half of the program will feature many of her own arrangements, and the second half will feature songs from an upcoming album.

The Star Series will continue on Saturday, October 15, with a performance by the Ballet Jazz de Paris. The program will include works choreographed by Roland Petit and Michael Kessler, among others. Feature dancers include Zizi Jeanmarie, Mr. Petit's wife, and Maurice Bejart from Le Ballet National de Marseille.

Jazz artist Cab Calloway will perform with the Greater Trenton Symphony Orchestra on Saturday, November 26, in the final event of the series. Mr. Calloway was the inspiration for the George Gershwin character Sportin' Life in Porgy and Bess. Mr. Calloway has headlined at Harlem's Cotton Club and appeared in more than a dozen Broadway shows and many movies.

His film credits include The Singing Kid with Al Jolson, Stomy Weather with Lena Horne, and more recently The Blues Brothers with Dan Ackroyd and John Belushi.

Tickets for the Eyes on Trenton '88 Star Series are now on sale. A subscription to the full series ranges from $68 to $41, depending on location. Tickets are also available on an individual basis for $25, $20 and $15.

To order, send a check or money order payable to Eyes on Trenton, 115 South Montgomery Street, Trenton 08611-1727. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Tickets may also be ordered by calling 599-3937 Fridays through Mondays from 10 to 6 or Tuesdays through Thursdays from 5 to 10 p.m.

Auditions Are Scheduled By Princeton Pro Musica

Princeton Pro Musica will audition choral singers for its 10th anniversary season on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, September 9 to 11, and Thursday, September 15. Princeton Pro Musica consists of a 120-voice chorus which performs major works with orchestra and a 25-voice chamber chorus. Frances F. Slade is music director and founder of the organization.

The season will open with a return engagement in Carnegie Hall with the Opera Orchestra of New York on Thursday, October 27. The performance will be a concert version of Bellini's Beatrice di Tenda. A Young Artists performance of the same work will take place at the State Theater in New Brunswick on Saturday, October 22.

The Pro Musica's 1988-89 subscription series will open with J.S. Bach's Magnificat in D and Messe Minuit pour Noel, a Latin mass based on traditional French Christmas carols, on Friday, December 16, and Sunday, December 18, in Princeton University's Richardson Auditorium. Ein Deutsches Requiem by Johannes Brahms will be presented on March 11 in Richardson.

The final subscription concert will include Carl Orff's Carmina Burana and Septem Angeli, a short work for chorus, two pianos and percussion by American composer Michael Fink. This concert will be performed on May 12 in the State Theater in New Brunswick and on May 20 in Richardson Auditorium.

Exercise Plays a Vital Role in Permanent Weight Control

Aerobic exercise uses your body's fat stores as its primary fuel source. That means that a high percentage of the time you spend exercising aerobically is devoted to burning excess fat.

At Diet Center, we recommend that you exercise aerobically for at least one half hour four times weekly to lose excess fat and to maintain your ideal weight. Of course for your exercise regimen to be fully effective, you should combine it with a nutritionally-sound diet. The Diet Center Program provides all of the elements necessary to ensure permanent weight control. Stop in today and ask for a free consultation.

Big Band Concert Set For Mercer County Park

The Benny Snyder Orchestra will present a free concert of big band music on Saturday at 7 in Mercer County Park, West Windsor. The performance closes the 1988 "Music in the Park" series, presented by the Mercer County Cultural and Heritage Commission during July and August.

It will be held adjacent to the ice rink in Mercer County Park. There is no reserved seating. In the event of rain, the concert will be held inside the rink.

For further information, call the Cultural and Heritage Commission weekdays at 989-6701; on the day of the concert, call Mercer County Park, 989-6530.

Openings for Singers In 'Mostly a Capella'

Mostly a Cappella, a choral ensemble based in Hopewell, has openings for singers in all voices. Singers should have a good sense of pitch and rhythm, some sight-reading ability, and be able to learn a tune quickly. The group rehearses weekly on Tuesday nights in Hopewell and performs several times a year in the central New Jersey area.

Mostly a Capella performs a wide range of a capella literature — motets, madrigals, spirituals, jazz and 20th-century works, including compositions by Holst, Willcocks, Poulenc, Kodaly and several New Jersey composers. Christmas performances this year will feature Britten's Ceremony of Carols.

Auditions may be arranged by calling the director, Norm Hurst, at 466-9465.

Kindermusik Classes Offered in S. Brunswick

Kindermusik of Central Jersey will hold an open house and registration for fall classes on Monday evening from 7 to 9 and Tuesday from 10 to 1 in the lower level of St. Barnabas Episcopal Church on Sand Hill Road in South Brunswick. Registration will be accepted for children enrolling in both semesters 1 and 2 and for a new pre-Kindermusik class.

Kindermusik is a specialized form of music education designed for children between the ages of 4 and 7. The new pre-Kindermusik class is for children who will be 4 years old by January 1. The curriculum has been created to facilitate children's exploration of their world through music. Its goals and objectives are very specific and can be accomplished during four 15-week semesters of instruction.

Instruction includes listening, vocal development, movement, ensemble work, playing instruments, ear training and musical games. Classes are held once a week for groups of six to 12 children and are 75 minutes in length. (The pre-Kindermusik classes are 45 minutes in length.) Enrollment is limited, so parents are encouraged to register at the open house to ensure their children a place in the class.

The tuition for each semester is $150 and $115 for the pre-Kindermusik program. The registration/materials fee is $55 for the first semester and $25 for each additional semester. For the pre-Kindermusik program, the registration/materials fee is $35. Classes will be held on Mondays and Tuesdays in South Brunswick. Classes are also offered in Hamilton Township.

Kindermusik is a studio program. The musical training is based on the understanding of fundamental concepts and is geared to the specific developmental stages of young children. It seeks to foster a life-long love of music and a joy in making music as an individual, and as part of a group. The child learns about writing and reading music and has all the necessary pre-requisites for successful instrumental study when the Kindermusik sequence is completed.

Materials include a four-color illustrated folder of pictures, songs, graphic notation and drawing pages; a musical games bag; a booklet for parents so that learning may continue through activities at home; a badge and stickers; a soprano glockenspiel; and a tote bag for transporting materials to and from class.

For more information call the director, Gailanne C. Hubbard, at (201) 297-9345 or write to Kindermusik of Central Jersey, P.O. Box 5074, Kendall Park 08824.

Singers Are Welcome To Join Choral Society

The Greater Trenton Choral Society is celebrating its 40th year.

The second oldest arts organization in Trenton, the Choral Society was formed at the invitation of the Trenton Junior Chamber of Commerce. It is a volunteer organization of singers from all walks of life. Its varied repertoire includes sacred and secular music, show tunes, and lighter popular music.

Joseph R. Pucciati has been appointed as the organization's director. He is a graduate of Trenton State College and is a music teacher in the Trenton school system. A co-founder of the musicians guild and the Boheme Club, he has served as a commissioner appointed to the Trenton Arts Committee by the mayor and was chairperson of the Performing Arts Committee. Mr. Pucciatti has conducted the operas I Pagliacci and Cavalleria Rusticana for the annual Feast of the Madonna and most recently Princeton Opera's Iolanthe at Washington Crossing's Open Air Theatre.

Singers interested in performing the Advent portion of Handel's Messiah with a chamber orchestra in December and Mozart's Coronation Mass and Poulenc's Gloria in April are invited to join the organization.

Rehearsals will begin Monday, September 12, at 8 in the ballroom of the War Memorial, Willow and Lafayette Streets, Trenton. Auditions for solo work will be held on Monday, October 10, following the group rehearsal. For more information call Chris Nelson, business manager, at 588-5124.

News of Clubs and Organizations

The annual judges and law clerks dinner sponsored by the Mercer County Bar Association will be held at 6 p.m. on Wednesday, September 14, at the Princeton Country Club.

Attorneys who wish to attend should call 989-0260 for reservations. No one will be admitted at the door.

Club Singles will sponsor "August Amazement" at the Holiday Inn on Route One on Friday. Dancing, contests, prizes, and a buffet will be offered. For information call 201-528-6343.

Singles Again Inc., will hold a dance party at the Holiday Inn on Route One every Saturday night through September. New member orientation is at 8:30. Dancing, DJ entertainment, door prizes and buffet begin at 9.

Princeton Elks B.P.O.E. No. 2129 will hold a black and white theme dance on Saturday, September 17, from 8 p.m. to midnight. There will be live music, food, prizes and a cash bar. For tickets call 921-6564. After 5 p.m. call 466-2031.

AT&T Pioneers, an employee charitable group is sponsoring a carnival on Saturday and Sunday on behalf of the Muscular Dystrophy Association. The event will be held at the former New Jersey State Fairgrounds behind Suburban Plaza on Nottingham Way in Hamilton Township from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. on Saturday and noon to 4 p.m. on Sunday.

Activities will include a dunking booth that will feature Hamilton Mayor Jack Rafferty, United States Representative Chris Smith and Trenton Committeeman Joseph Yuhas. Other attractions will include an appearance by Eddie Rabbitt, a battle of the bands, food, a petting zoo, and carnival games. All proceeds will be given to the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

The Historical Society of West Windsor will meet Monday, September 12, at 7:30 in the West Windsor Board of Education building at the corner of Village Road West and South Mill Road.

Topics will include nominations of officers and trustees, the holiday house tour, and discussion of participation in Mercer County Days in October. After the meeting there will be a tour of the building for those interested in seeing how the old Sunday school was renovated for office use.

For more information, call Joan Parry at 452-8598.

Todd Bryan, executive director of the Stony Brook-Millstone Watershed Association, will speak on water pollution at the next meeting of the Hopewell Valley Garden Club. Scheduled for 7:30 p.m. on Wednesday, September 7, the meeting will be held at Watershed headquarters on Titus Mill Road, Pennington. The public is invited.

Previous to assuming his present post in 1985, Mr. Bryan was with the Rhode Island Department of Environmental Management, first as chief of the Fresh Water Wetlands Regulatory Program, and then as Principal Natural Resources Specialist. Before that he was coordinator of the Rhode Island Natural Heritage Program of the Nature Conservancy.

The Princeton YWCA Newcomers Club will begin its fall activities with a general meeting on Friday, September 9, at noon at the YM-YWCA. The club is open to persons who live within 15 miles of Princeton, and who have lived here for less than three years.

The club offers varied activities in areas such as gourmet, bridge, sports, antiques, Princeton history, and theatre trips.

For more information, call Jeanne Reaph at 275-8918 or Peg Heath at 779-3023. Baby sitting is available during the meeting.

The Mercer County Stroke Club will meet Wednesday, September 7, at 11 a.m. in the lounge of the Unitarian Church.

Those who have had a stroke, their families, and friends, are invited to attend. Dessert and beverage will be served.

Joyce Belton will maintain the hot line, 737-9063.

Design Forum

Eileen B. Saums, Allied Member A.S.I.D. speaks on Solving a Furniture Mystery.

There's one mystery about furniture that can be difficult for the average person to solve.

The mystery comes when you shop for any upholstered furniture — and the reason for the mystery is that the real worth of an upholstered piece is not only what shows on the outside, but what's inside — the material and the workmanship.

Exactly what IS underneath the top covering of an upholstered piece? Well, there's webbing, springs, padding, stuffing and lining. Remember, these vary things determine the comfort of any seating piece, and how long it will last. One chair might not have enough springs, or the springs might not be close enough, or they may not be fastened properly. The padding may either be of a good quality or not-so-good. These are the kind of things you can't see and can't be sure of — and that's why an upholstered piece is like an iceberg — there's much more underneath than on top.

How do you know what kind of chair or sofa you're getting, since you can't see the inside? The best way is to rely on the place where you go to buy an upholstered piece.

We always attempt to take the mystery out of upholstered furniture by telling you what its honest value is, and we invite you to shop here with peace of mind.

We would like to remind you that the Holidays are right around the corner and now is the time to place your orders so you have your home in excellent shape. Ask about our Design Service that can aid you with those difficult decisions.

ART

Four-Day Arts Showcase To Be Held in New Hope

A four-day event showcasing the arts and artists of New Hope will be held Friday through Monday, September 9 through 12, in the village of New Hope.

Sponsored by the New Hope Chamber of Commerce, the third annual Showcase will feature exhibitions, outdoor sculpture, concerts, performances and poetry readings. Galleries and businesses sponsoring events will be flying blue and white Showcase '88 flags.

Among the demonstrations scheduled during the event-filled weekend are painting and sculpting, crystal engraving, fine woodworking using rare woods for furniture, stone carving, stained glass-making and printmaking using a 100-year-old hand press.

Art openings, special gallery exhibits, and tours of historic houses and artists' studios will be offered. A concert of New Age music, puppet show, political satire review, dinner theatre, and a sing-along are also among the many special daytime and evening events.

More information is available by calling the New Hope Borough information center, (215) 862-5880.

Children's Art Workshops Are Planned for Fall

Susan Kriegman will offer a fall art workshop series for children in grades one to five beginning the week of September 19.

A children's design workshop will emphasize creative problem solving in visual design. This will be held Monday for grades one and two and Wednesday for grades three and four.

A children's drawing workshop is recommended for artistically gifted children in grades three to five.

Ms. Kriegman, who holds a B.S. in art education and a master's of fine art, has been teaching art at the college level and in New Jersey public schools for the past 12 years. She is presently an art teacher in the Montgomery public schools. This will be her third year conducting children's art workshops at the Arts Council.

Class size is limited to ten. To register, call Ms. Kriegman at 275-6553 between August 20 and September 5.

Exhibits

"By Land and by Sea," a show of contemporary watercolors and acrylics by Joanne S. Scott, will open September 3 at AT&T's Corporate Education Center Gallery on Carter Road in Hopewell. The opening reception is scheduled for September 8, from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m., and the public is invited.

Ms. Scott has been painting and teaching for 25 years. Early in her career she won prestigious awards at the Baltimore Museum and the Corcoran Gallery of Art in Washington, D.C. Her subject matter consists mostly of old farmhouses ant the natural surroundings of rural Maryland, the Chesapeake Bay, and the coast of Maine.

Ivy Forecasts Rate Tiger Football Team at or Near the Top, And This Just Might Be the Year It Ends that Title Drought

Everybody knows pre-season football polls shouldn't be taken too seriously, but for those of us who have followed Princeton's roller coaster fortunes in the sport the last two decades the forecasts are worth noting.

Not only have the Tigers not won an Ivy title in the last 19 years, but no publication has thought enough of their chances to pick them for the top spot or even second place. The Orange and Black has been dumped somewhere in the middle, usually no higher than fourth, and mostly consigned to the second division of the Ancient Eight.

The annual poll of the league's sports information directors has followed the same pattern, with teams such as Harvard, Penn or Yale receiving most of the votes. On rare occasions (1981 and 1985) Old Nassau has proved itself a better team than predicted, but its most common league record since 1970 has been 3-4 (eight times).

Suddenly, this year the football magazines have discovered Princeton. Maybe they took their cue from the Ivy SIDs who picked the Tigers to finish second behind Harvard, the highest they have been in that balloting in recent memory.

The three surveyed here all rate Princeton as a serious contender for league honors. Football Digest picks Princeton third, behind Harvard and Yale. Street & Smith's likes Harvard to finish first, but rates the Crimson as only a slight favorite over the Tigers with Cornell third. And The Sporting News puts Princeton at the top, ahead of Harvard and the Big Red, with the comment "Led by the Garrett brothers, the Tigers will win their first title in 19 years."

Reality Intrudes. Ah, if only mere words were enough to turn that dream into reality. The reality comes on fourth down inside the opponent's 20-yard line with a touchdown needed to win, as it did last October against both Brown and Harvard. It intruded a third time in November when Yale outclassed the Orange and Black.

JASON THROUGH THE AIR: The key to Princeton's football fortunes this fall will rest on the shoulders of Jason Garrett. No Ivy team can expect to compete for an Ivy title without a proven passer and Harvard and Princeton have the only two. (Paul Huegel photo)

SPORTS

Steve Tosches is well aware of life's realities. A year ago, he was thrust into the position of Princeton's head coach when death suddenly claimed the popular Ron Rogerson at age 44. Tosches, just 31, proved equal to the challenge and produced a 6-4 mark, the best here since 1980.

Surveying the prospects for this fall, Tosches leaves no doubt he went to the Rogerson school of positive thinking. His attempts at cautious optimism come across as more optimistic than cautious.

"Our immediate goal is to repeat our winning program," he says, leaving no doubt he believes it will be accomplished. "Princeton football has been on a roller coaster the last 16 to 18 years. We have taken one step forward and two backward."

No Guarantees. "We need to create consistency to stay in the race, and then if we get top performances from some individuals, we will be in position to challenge for the championship. But, I'm not in a position right now to guarantee a championship."

That championship probably won't be guaranteed to any team in the league until after the final Saturday of play in November. But the feeling here is that Tosches will have his team in contention right to the end, and just maybe capture that elusive title after 19 years.

There are seven league games on the schedule, but the one that figures to be most important is the October 22 meeting with Harvard. Returning most of the key personnel that won the title a year ago, the Crimson has to be viewed as the favorite in this race. The key to the success of any team is an established quarterback, and in Tom Yohe, Harvard has the only other one in the league besides Jason Garrett.

Cornell and Penn both fell from the top last fall because they could not come up with a consistent performer at that spot. If it is to challenge Harvard and Princeton, Yale, with plenty of talent in other areas, must find someone to fill the shoes of the superb Kelly Ryan. Brown, Dartmouth and Columbia need more than that to become legitimate contenders.

Princeton not only has Jason calling the signals, but brother Judd, who figures to be one of the top runners in the league again. It has talent elsewhere in center Bob Surace, tight end Mark Rockefeller, defensive end Rick Emery, linebacker Franco Pagnanelli, cornerback Frank Leal and the promise of sophomore safety Mike Hirou.

It also has holes to fill, especially at wide receiver, where Tosches says, "I don't know if we can fill them to the efficiency we did last year." Eleven starters are back, leaving another 11 to be found during the three weeks of practice before the season's opener against Cornell. In that regard, a change in the academic calendar may work in Tosches' favor. All pre-season practices and the first game will take place before the start of classes on Monday, September 19.

Injuries could change Princeton's fortunes. Last year the defense lost several key players for part or all of the season. Tosches and his assistants were forced to promote reserve players to starting positions almost every week.

However, Tosches stresses the team has more depth than ever before. He has the pick of

WBRW Radio to Carry Tiger Football Games

Princeton University and WBUD-radio, the flagship station of Tiger football, have announced that WBRW-radio of Somerville will carry the live broadcast of all 1988 Princeton football games.

WBRW, which is found at 1170 on the AM dial, covers Somerset and Hunterdon counties. WBUD, based in Trenton and found at 1260 AM, covers Princeton and the Trenton area.

Sportscaster Howard David is the play-by-play voice of Princeton football. He is joined by Kevin Guthrie, '84, a record-setting wide receiver during his undergraduate days at the University, who provides the color commentary. Princeton's football games also are broadcast on WPRB-radio, the University's student station. WPRB transmits at 103.3 on the FM dial.

JUDD ON THE RUN: Judd Garrett finished second to Harvard's Tony Hinz as the top ground gainer in Ivy games last season (710 yards to 694). The Tigers' running game will again center around the junior halfback this fall, but coach Steve Tosches is hoping to give the ball to other backs more often.

a crop of sophomores that produced a 5-1 mark as freshmen, the best in years. And the right attitude is firmly in place.

"Winning is very important to the players right now," he says. "They aren't satisfied with mediocrity. Football is very, very important to them. This has been apparent during their winter conditioning excercises. They are willing to put the time in."

You can't ask more than that. Pre-season camp will open this weekend, and the countdown to the season's opener at Ithaca on Saturday, September 17, will begin.

During the next three weeks of pre-season practice, Tosches and his assistants will be looking at more than 100 players to evalulate their skills at various positions. The following position-by-position breakdown will concentrate on the offense. The defense will be discussed in next week's issue, and the opponents, the following week, September 7.

Quarterback: "Jason has got to be one of the better quarterbacks in the east at any level," says Tosches. Last year's statistics prove his point; Garrett (6'1, 192) completed almost 65 percent of his passes for more than 2,000 yards and eight touchdowns. His leadership qualities are strong, too; he was elected sole captain of this year's squad by his teammates. The better the year Jason has, the better Princeton's chances of winning will be. More than anyone else he will control the destiny of this team. His back-up is senior Brian Barren (6'0, 185), who may get a shot at more playing time as a wide receiver.

Halfback: Judd Garrett (6'2, 205), a second team all-Ivy choice as a sophomore, could be the best running back in the league this fall. He ran for 822 yards last season, and also was one of the team's top receivers. Injuries slowed him down a bit near the end of the season, leading Tosches to comment: "I'd like to take some of the pressure and pounding off Judd." He'll be looking to senior Kris Keys (5'8, 160) in this regard. Probably the fastest man on the team, Keys should see much more playing time this fall. The best sophomore prospect is Dan Bents (5'11, 175).

Fullback: A pair of seniors will give the Tigers good depth at fullback. Greg DiFelice (5'11, 190) has been moved from halfback, where he saw limited action a year ago. Dennis Heidt (5'11, 200) came on as the season progressed, playing particularly well against Penn. A third senior, Jerry Reen (5'11, 210), will compete for the starting job as well.

Wide Receivers: This position is wide open. Jason Garrett's two top receivers, brother John and Jeff Baker, have graduated. Together they combined for 87 receptions good for 1,264 yards, both earning all-Ivy honors in the process. The top pre-season candidate, senior Dave Wix (5'11, 175) has caught just one pass; the others have no varsity experience at all. These include juniors Scott Gibbs (5'11, 165), John Frazer (6'3, 195) and Scott Serafy (6'0, 170). Sophomores to watch are Trevor Crossen (6'0, 188) and Joe Baker (5'10, 170). Crossen was the leading ground gainer as a halfback on the freshman team.

Tight End: With the inexperience at wide receiver, senior speedster Mark Rockefeller (6'3, 225) may see the ball coming his way more often. One of the top tight ends in the league, he caught 21 passes for 207 yards a year ago, and appears ready for an outstanding season. His back-up, junior Peter Masloski (6'3, 225), a standout on special teams last season, is highly regarded also. Senior Ed Appuzi (6'3, 230) adds further depth to the position.

Center: Tosches can't say enough about Bob Surace (6'2, 235), who was given the job of center as a sophomore and did everything asked of him. "He was one of our unsung heros last year, and should become a dominant player in this league," the coach believes. Senior Chris Robertshaw (6'3, 230) returns as his back-up.

Offenstve Guard: Both guard spots are open, and if the inside running game is to succeed, solid replacements will have to be found for all-Ivy performer Mark Seilhamer and Josh Chambers. Jay Davidson (6'4, 255) a senior who saw considerable playing time in 1987, is expected to fill one of the openings. Senior Mike Schumacher (6'3, 225), who was sidelined by a back injury last season, and juniors Ed Record (6'2, 230) and Mike Davis (6'3, 240) are candidates for the other starting berth.

Offensive Tackle: There is more experience here with the return of senior George Sarcevich (6'5, 275), who started every game a year ago. Another senior, Kevin Coupe (6'4, 255), got extensive game experience last fall as a reserve behind Andy Johanni. Charlie Jones (6-2, 250) and John Clevenger (6'4, 245), both juniors, will push for playing time.

26 Games on Schedule For Princeton Quintet

It's difficult to think of basketball or ice hockey with a month still left in summer, but for those who like to plan ahead, here is a look at the schedules for the Princeton University men's teams in these two sports.

Pete Carril's men will play their usual 26 games, but things should be a little tougher this year for the Tigers. After the usual home opener with Franklin & Marshall the Saturday after Thanksgiving, Princeton will meet Colgate and Iona at home. Contests against Lehigh, Rutgers and Seton Hall, all of which the Orange and Black won at Jadwin last winter, will be played on the road this December. St. Joseph's, always a tough foe, returns to the schedule for the first time in many years.

The annual post-Christmas trip will take the Tigers to the Cotton State Classic in Atlanta. Georgia, the host team, LaSalle and South Carolina round out the entries. In January, the non-league schedule will conclude with games against Delaware, Fordham and Muhlenberg.

The league schedule, which rotates from one year to the next, does not favor Princeton this year. It must open on the road against Brown and Yale, and close on the road against Penn, Dartmouth and Harvard.

Last season was one of acute disappointment for Princeton. It seemed to have the talent and the confidence to capture its first Ivy title since 1984, but three nightmarish one-point losses in a row to Harvard, Yale and Brown wiped out that dream.

The Orange and Black finished two games behind champion Cornell with a 9-5 mark. Its overall record was a fine 17-9. Three mainstays have graduated from last year's team: Tim Neff, Dave Orlandini and John Thompson, but Pete Carril hopes to build a contender around senior captain Bob Scrabis.

He is only 25 points shy of becoming the Tigers' first 1,000-point scorer since Craig Robinson '83. Sophomore center Kit Mueller and some promising freshmen should help.

The complete schedule follows:

November 26, Franklin & Marshall; November 30, Colgate; December 3, Iona; December 7 at Lehigh; December 10, St. Joseph's (Pa.); December 17 at Rutgers; December 21 at Seton Hall; December 29 and 30, Cotton States Classic in Atlanta, Ga.

January 4 at Delaware; January 7, Fordham; January 23, Muhlenberg; January 27 at Brown; January 28 at Yale;

February 3, Harvard; February 4, Dartmouth; February 7, Pennsylvania; February 10 at Columbia; February 11 at Cornell; February 17, Yale; February 18, Brown; February 24, Cornell; February 25, Columbia; February 28 at Pennsylvania;

March 3 at Dartmouth and March 4 at Harvard.

Little Change for Hockey. With the exception of the games against non-Division I opponents, the hockey schedule barely changes from year to year. The same teams are played on the same weekend, with only the home and away meetings reversed. Coach Jim Higgins' skaters opened at home the middle of last November against Colgate and Cornell. This time they will meet the Big Red and the Raiders on the road. Dartmouth and Harvard follow, and the back-to-back games against Army are set for the Friday and Saturday after Thanksgiving.

Nonleague games will be played Sunday, December 18, against Holy Cross in Baker Rink and Sunday, January 22, against Elmira in Baker. After Christmas the team will travel to Maine for the Dexter Shoe Classic in Orono. Clarkson will meet Lowell in the first game on Tuesday, December 27, and Princeton will face off against the Black Bears, the host team in the second game.

The Orange and Black achieved its highest finish and best mark ever in Division I standings, a tie for sixth, and 11-10-1. Its overall mark was 12-15-1. This year the Tigers are seeking to finish as one of the top four teams in the Division and thus secure home ice advantage for the first round of the ECAC tournament.

Leading the team in that quest will be co-captain John Messuri, a top candidate for the Hobey Baker Award, presented annually by the Decathlon Athletic Club to college hockey's outstanding player. Last season, he was an all-ECAC first team choice and the Ivy League Player of the Year. He led the ECAC in scoring during intraleague play (39 points), and by a scant vote, he missed earning a spot on the Titan Division I East all-America second team.

The complete schedule follows:

November 11, at Cornell; November 12, at Colgate; November 18, Dartmouth; November 19, Harvard; November 25, Army; November 26 at Army;

December 2 at Vermont; December 3 at Rensselaer; December 9 at Brown; December 11 at Yale; December 18, Holy Cross; December 27, Dexter Shoe Classic at Orono, Maine.

January 6, St. Lawrence; January 7, Clarkson; January 22, Elmira; January 27, Colgate; January 28, Cornell.

February 3 at Harvard; February 4 at Dartmouth; February 10, Rensselaer; February 11, Vermont; February 17 at Clarkson; February 18 at St. Lawrence; February 24, Brown; and February 25, Yale.

Soccer Assistants Named For University Women

Dodie Colavecchio, a 1988 Princeton graduate, and Jane McBride, a 1988 graduate of Dartmouth College, have been named women's soccer assistants for the 1988 season. The announcement was made by Robert J. Myslik, Princeton's Director of Athletics. Both Colavecchio and McBride are former players with impressive collegiate careers.

Colavecchio, one of the best players in the history of Princeton women's soccer, was a four-time all-Ivy goaltender and was the team's captain her senior year. During her career she accumulated various honors, including the Ivy League's Co-Player of the Year Award, and the New Jersey College Soccer Player of the Year. She also holds the Ivy record for saves in a career with 303.

McBride concluded an outstanding soccer career at Ivy rival Dartmouth College when she was named to the 1987 all-Ivy squad, her third appearance on the team. The captain of the Big Green squad her senior year, McBride was also a member of the Under-23 East Regional team.

Bike Tours Raise Funds For Charitable Groups

Two bike tours will be held this fall to raise funds for charity. Participants will travel at their own pace over 150-mile routes, and every rider will raise money for each mile of the completed tour.

The bike tours are not races. Rest stops with plenty of refreshments, support vehicles, professional communications, overnight accommodations and bike repair service are provided.

Campbell's MS 150 Bike Tour will be held September 17 and 18 to raise funds for the Mid-Jersey Chapter of the National Multiple Sclerosis Society. The Society services over 1,800 people with MS, providing medical equipment assistance, support groups, information, referral, and education.

The tour will begin from Monmouth Battlefield State Park in Freehold and travel over scenic flat terrain. After riding 75 miles the first day, participants will arrive in the "Blueberry Capital of the World," Hammonton, for an overnight stay. In the evening, riders can enjoy Swedish massage, meditation, and/or a tour of the Tomasello Winery. Dinner will be prepared by the Academy of Culinary Arts.

Prizes will be awarded based on the amount of money raised. Volunteers are needed throughout the weekend. For information call 586-5406.

The Fall Foliage Bicycle Trek benefiting the American Lung Association of New Jersey and Mid-New Jersey will be held October 8, 9, and 10 in Atlantic and Cape May Counties.

Each trekker will receive a detailed route map and trip ticket. There will also be pre-trek workships on biking techniques, safety, conditioning, equipment maintenance and cycling rules. Incentive prizes will be awarded based on the number of sponsors and dollar totals registered by trekkers.

A trek workshop and information session is scheduled at the Medford Bicycle and Fitness Center in Medford this Thursday at 8 p.m. For information and workshop schedules, call the Lung Association, 452-2112.

LET'S TALK ABOUT

CICADA KILLER WASPS

with Sam deTuro

Woodwinds Associates

Homeowners and landscape maintenance personnel are having their problems with CICADA KILLER WASPS. These large wasps appear during mid-summer and burrow into lawns, edges of sand traps as well as children's sandboxes. A mound of earth marks the entrance to the tunnel. Even though the female cicada killer possesses a formidable stinger, it seldom is used on human beings.

After the burrow is constructed, the female wasp searches for a cicada. The initial "strike" usually knocks the cicada and cicada killer to the ground. The wasp then stings the cicada and transports it to the pre-dug burrow and places the cicada into the tunnel opening. She then goes into the tunnel, turns around and drags the cicada into a chamber and deposits an egg near the legs. Each burrow has several chambers, and each chamber contains one or two cicadas before it is sealed. The egg hatches after two to three days and the wasp larva feeds on the cicada for about two months. After the feeding period is complete, the larva spins a cocoon and "rests" until the next summer.

Most attempts to control cicada killers by using insecticides have not been very successful. Generally liquid sprays do not penetrate through tunnels or into chambers. Therefore, dust formulations of insecticides are more successful. The dust must be forced through nest openings into tunnels — do not just dump into the holes. Knapsack or hand-held bulb dusters work well. Suitable insecticides are diazinon, Dursban, Sevin baygon.

OBITUARIES

Wade C. Stephens, 55, director of studies at The Lawrenceville School, died suddenly of a heart attack on August 21 in Ogunquit, Maine.

Dr. Stephens was an alumnus of the Class of 1950 at Lawrenceville and the class salutatorian. In 1954 he graduated summa cum laude from Princeton University, where he was a member of Phi Beta Kappa. He received his M.A. degree in classics as a Woodrow Wilson Fellow from Cornell University in 1955 and his Ph.D. in classics as a Frelinghuysen Fellow from Princeton in 1957.

A member of The Lawrenceville School faculty since 1957, he had been chairman of the Classics Department, master of the Hamill House, and chairman of the Department of Foreign Languages. Dr. Stephens was the author of The Spirit of the Classical World and co-author of Lingua Latina Viva.

In 1987, a new residential house at The Lawrenceville School was named in honor of Dr. Stephens and his family. The Stephens House was given to the school by his Lawrenceville classmate and friend, Artemis A.W. Joukowsky.

Dr. Stephens was an elder at the Lawrenceville Presbyterian Church and treasurer of the Princeton Chapter of the English-Speaking Union. He was a graduate trustee of the Terrace Club of Princeton University and a former trustee of the Vergilian Society. He was a member of the advisory council of the Classics Department at Princeton University, and a former regional chairman of the Class of 1954 at Princeton.

He was a member of the Nassau Club.

He is survived by his wife, the former Jean Roper Samuels; two daughters, Carroll U. Stephens (Mrs. John Havran), and Elizabeth Stephens Hebb (Mrs. James); a son, David B. Stephens; his mother, Mrs. John U. Stephens of Ogunquit, Maine; a brother, Horace D. Stephens of Houston, Tex.; and a grandson, Wade M. Stephens.

A memorial service will be held Friday at 11 in The Lawrenceville School Chapel. In lieu of flowers, contributions may be made to The Lawrenceville School, Box 6125, Lawrenceville 08648.

Wade C. Stephens

Mabel Pietrinferno, 160 Hickory Court, died August 20 at Princeton Medical Center.

Born in Norfolk, Va., Mrs. Pietrinferno was a Princeton resident for more than 55 years and was a member of St. Paul Roman Catholic Church.

Wife of the late Alfred J. Pietrinferno, she is survived by two sons, Alfred J. Jr. of West Windsor Township and John H. of Princeton; three daughters, Joan M. O'Kane of Princeton Junction, Mary Ann K. Pietrinferno of Princeton and Janet A. Pietrinferno of Plainsboro; a sister, Mary Todd Paras of Orlando, Fla.; and four grandchildren, Elizabeth O'Kane of Minnesota, Thomas R. O'Kane of Lawrenceville, and A.J. and Kristen L. Pietrinferno of West Windsor.

Mass of Christian Burial was celebrated in St. Paul Church with burial in the parish cemetery. Contributions may be made to the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad, PO Box 529, Princeton 08542.

Francesca Mazzella, 90, died August 19 at her home.

Born in Ischia, Italy, Mrs. Mazzella came to the United States in 1928 and lived in Princeton for 60 years. She was a member of St. Paul Roman Catholic Church and the Altar and Rosary Society.

Surviving are six sons, John Trani of Florida, Joseph Trani of Flagstown, Benjamin Trani of Belle Mead, Ralph J. Trani of Princeton, Francis Mazzella of Titusville and Richard Mazzella of Hopewell Township; three daughters, Agnes Gillman of Oregon, Carmella McAllister of Princeton and Mary Meyer of Skillman; 28 grandchildren and 30 great-grandchildren.

Mass of Christian Burial was celebrated at St. Paul Church with burial in the parish cemetery.

Wilhelmine Burker, 93, of Kingston, died August 20 at Franklin Convalescent Center, Franklin Township. Born in Germany, Mrs. Burker had lived in Kingston since 1923.

Wife of the late Edward A. Burker, she is survived by a daughter, Lisbeth B. Higgins of Kingston; three grandchildren; two great-grandchildren; and a brother, Henry Schorr of Lyndhurst.

The service was held at Kimble Funeral Home, the Rev. John Heinsohn, pastor of the Kingston Presbyterian Church, officiating. Burial was in Rocky Hill Cemetery. Memorial contributions may be made to the Kingston First Aid and Rescue Squad, Box 392, Kingston 08528.

Agnes Padgett Hoke, 85, died August 16 at Meadow Lakes, Hightstown. She was a former Princeton resident.

Mrs. Hoke was born in Cynthiana, Ky., and educated at Midway College. Her career in the culinary field took her to restaurants in New York City and then to the Williamburg Inn in Williamsburg, Va. She was the wife of the late George B. Hoke, a manager of resort hotels including the Williamsburg Inn, Princeton Inn, Tides Inn, Bedford Springs and Dorado Beach Hotels.

She was the creator and founder of 18th-Century Bouquets, a Princeton business that supplied dried flowers and bouquets to retail outlets, including the Williamsburg Craft House, Lord and Taylor and B. Altman's. The business was featured in a Saturday Evening Post article titled "Flowers That Bloom Forever."

After her husband's death, Mrs. Hoke lived in Williamsburg until 1979, when she moved to Meadow Lakes.

Surviving are a son, G. Bland Hoke Jr., a daughter, Elizabeth Scott, and six grandchildren, all of whom live in Jackson Hole, Wyo.

Burial was in Cedar Grove Cemetery, Williamsburg, Va. Contributions may be made in her memory to Meadow Lakes Memorial Fund, Hightstown 08520.

Patricia Lund Casserly, 57, of Cuyler Road, died August 20 in an automobile accident on the Beltway outside Baltimore, Md. She was pronounced dead on arrival at Francis Scott Key Hospital, Baltimore.

Born in Hartford, Conn., Mrs. Casserly attended Smith College in Northampton, Mass., and received her undergraduate degree in 1964 after raising her family. She received a master's degree in education at Rutgers University. She was a research associate at Educational Testing Service and had been associated with ETS for many years.

Surviving are two sons, James L. Casserly of Washington, D.C. and Michael S. Casserly of Princeton; a daughter, Patricia Casserly Critchfield of Dallas, Tex.; three grandchildren; and her mother, Mrs. G. Clarence Lund of Hartford, Conn.

The funeral service will be held Friday at 2 at Trinity Church, 33 Mercer Street, the Rev. Bruce Webber officiating with the Rev. Carol Stoye. Burial will be private.

In lieu of flowers, contributions may be made to the Princeton Community Crisis Ministry, c/o Nassau Presbyterian Church, 61 Nassau Street, or to the Smith College Scholarship Fund, Northampton, Mass.

RELIGION

Day Care Center, School Offered by Two Churches

Princeton Alliance Church and Princeton Baptist Church will open a new Christian day care center and nursery school Wednesday, September 7, at the Princeton Baptist Church, Route 1, Penns Neck. An open house will be held at the new facility, called Kids Are It!, on Sunday from 1 to 5.

Kids are It! will accept children from ages 2½ to 6 with a maximum of 44 students. Four classrooms are planned with a teacher and an aide in each classroom. The hours will be from 7 a.m. to 6:30 p.m.

According to Betsy Branstetter, the organizing chairman, the school's goal is to serve as a ministry to the community, and as "an extension of the family of each child." The program will include music under the direction of Princeton Alliance's Minister of Music, Rev. Douglas Peterson and Linda Peterson, and puppets under direction of the Rev. Robert Cushman and Linda Cushman.

The organizing committee consists of the Rev. Dr. Michael P. Valentine, the senior pastor of Princeton Alliance Church; the Rev. David Powles of Princeton Baptist Church; Rev. Cushman, executive pastor of Princeton Alliance Church and its director of Christian education; and Alliance Church members Christopher Valentine, Ruth Currie, Mrs. Branstetter and Molly Gilly, who will serve as director of Kids Are It!

Registrations are now being taken. Further information is available from Mrs. Branstetter at 275-3838 or the Princeton Alliance church office, 799-9000.

Bulletin Notes

The Rev. Theodore A. Gill Jr., a teaching fellow and doctoral candidate in the Department of Ecumenics and Mission at Princeton Theological Seminary, will be the guest preacher Sunday at the 10 a.m. service at the Princeton University Chapel. His sermon topic will be "The Bread of Life."

Mr. Gill studied at the University of Wisconsin, Princeton Theological Seminary and Mansfield College, Oxford, before returning to the United States in 1986 to complete his graduate studies at Princeton.

The Women's Association of Princeton Alliance Church will sponsor a seminar for women, with Jill Briscoe and Judy Briscoe Golz, at Princeton High School on Saturday, September 10 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The mother-daughter team has an active speaking and writing schedule addressing the subjects of marriage, motherhood, Biblical concepts of the family and the role of women in our society. Mrs. Briscoe's books, some in collaboration with her daughter and husband, include Space to Breathe - Room to Grow, A Time for Living, Fight for the Family, and the children's books, Harrow Sparrow, and The Innkeeper's Daughter.

Mrs. Briscoe is coordinator of Women's Ministries at Elmbrook Church, Waukesha, Wisc., where her husband, Stuart, is pastor. Mrs. Golz graduated from Wheaton College and is studying for her Ph.D. in community psychology at New York University.

Further information is available from the church office, 799-9000.

Fran Bailey of New York City, a minister in training, will be the guest speaker at the Religious Science Church on Sunday at the 10 a.m. service. Her sermon is entitled "No Pain — No Gain."

Miss Bailey, a licensed practitioner with the Church of Religious Science in West Nyack, N.Y., will officiate at the service in the place of Pastor Gwen Gillespie, who is on vacation.

WASHINGTON WELL FARM

This important landmark property is a mellow blend of history and authentic Colonial architecture. Sited on more than seven acres in nearby Montgomery the handsome dwelling is surrounded by various picturesque outbuildings including a two room guest house, a summer house with flagstone floor, brick fireplace & patio (located near a good sized inground pool), two large barns, and a four car garage. The house itself, presently divided into an apartment wing and the owner's quarters, has a total of approximately 4428 square feet. The owner's wing has five bedrooms and 2 baths plus a 29 foot formal living room w/beamed ceiling and fireplace, lovely dining room w/beamed ceiling and fireplace; a solarium; marvelous completely renovated country kitchen w/beamed ceiling, fireplace, work island and updated appliances. Separate laundry, mudroom and office. The apartment contains a living room w/marble fireplace, bedroom or study w/fireplace, kitchen and bath on first floor and a bedroom and bath on second. Lovely grounds and tall shade trees. $1,150,000

CHERRY HILL

A happy little cape on its own lovely .9 of an acre in Princeton. Completely renovated with a wonderful new kitchen, three bedrooms, 2 baths, living room, dining room and breakfast room with deck overlooking a very private backyard. Flowering trees, bulbs and perennial gardens make this a gem of a house. Now $292,000

PRESTIGIOUS, PRIVATE AND UNIQUE

A spacious brick Colonial on Stuart Road in Princeton on a wooded lot with 5/6 bedrooms, 4½ baths. Some of the unique custom features are: a greenhouse breakfast room overlooking flagstone patio & pool; French doors from family room and living room open onto a terrace, making it a gracious home for entertaining. The master bedroom suite features an enormous light-filled bathroom w/hot tub overlooking the gorgeous mature landscaping; a first floor guest bedroom or office and bath plus burglar and fire alarms. Outstanding value at $835,000

PRINCETON LANDING

A Courtyard Model 213 in the choice area of Princeton Landing, with deck overlooking lawn and tall trees. Entry, carpeted living room with fireplace, dining room, kitchen, and lavatory. Sliding doors open to a deck. Upstairs, there is a master suite with bath, another bedroom, a hall bath, and a third bedroom or den. Two-car attached garage; basement. Must see to appreciate! $239,500

ABSOLUTELY PRISTINE

This lovely old Colonial has been manicured and maintained so as to present the best of both worlds — the clean and classic lines of the late 18th Century on the exterior and an immaculate, updated but unspoiled interior. Entry way, well proportioned step-down living room w/old stone fireplace, spacious dining room, efficient kitchen w/new range, double oven and new refrigerator, adjoining breakfast area and pantry, separate utility room and powder room, all on first floor. Upstairs, a master bedroom 17x19 w/its own updated tile bath, two other bedrooms and a new bath w/built-ins and brass fixtures. Off the living room there is a spacious screened porch w/brick floor and an adjoining two-level brick patio. Central air. Almost an acre of beautiful shade trees and landscaping. All in nearby North Lawrence with a Princeton address. $450,000

ARBORETUM IN PENNINGTON

Designed to resemble an old house, this lovely cape nestles in the middle of 3.7 beautiful acres with stream, meadow, lawn, woods and a wonderful variety of specimen trees and shrubs. The residence has 3 bedrooms, sewing room, 2 baths, living room, library, family room, dining room and kitchen w/stone terraces and a screened porch. Complete privacy and great charm for $350,000

PRINCETON BOROUGH

In the Patton-Prospect Avenue neighborhood within walking distance of the Riverside School, University and Town, an easy-to-care-for story-and-a-half house w/two bedrooms and bath on first floor and a master bedroom and bath on second. Plus a panelled living room w/fireplace, dining area w/sliding doors to a private patio and a family room. One-car attached garage. Beautiful shade trees and fenced back garden. Now $365,000

QUEENSTON COMMONS

Have it all! Amazing amount of space (all large rooms), living room w/fireplace & sliding glass doors onto a Japanese garden, formal dining room with chair rail, kitchen with breakfast area, 3 bedrooms (one is enormous), 2½ baths, family room, basement and garage. The many extra special upgrades & features, together with no outside maintenance means you can spend your leisure time in your own pool and on the tennis court. Now $258,000

Interesting Part-Time Position Open at Town Topics

Whether you're new to Princeton, or have lived here many years, here is a part-time job opening (three to four days a week) that will enable you to learn more about this unique town. TOWN TOPICS, Princeton's weekly newspaper, has a position open in its production department that involves a wide variety of duties related to putting a newspaper together.

These include copy editing and typesetting stories for publication, ad mark-up and paste-up, headline and caption writing. We'll teach you how to operate various computers. Of course, previous experience in newspaper work would be helpful, but it's definitely not necessary. The only skill one needs to qualify is good typing.

Our salary is competitive with other part-time jobs in this area. We also offer two weeks paid vacation after one year, Christmas bonus, sick days, and participation in an excellent profit-sharing plan, and last, but not least, the congenial atmosphere of a small office.

Bring an informal resume along and come in for an interview and a typing test. Call 924-2200 to set up an appointment.
